In our lives so many things are not permanent. Everything is always changing, from the increasing student body, to new teachers, and surroundings. People move away, new friendships develop while others fade away. Fashion trends come and go with the passing years. What is "cool" seems to change every other week. The government, our nation, and the world are always being molded. Our hopes and dreams for the future are constantly changing direction. But there are some things that never change.

The theme of the 2007-2008 yearbook is The Original. While other things have come and gone, the students at Battlefield High School will never be forgotten. The seniors are the first graduating class to have attended Battlefield for all four years. They were the Original Bobcats.

The theme The Original describes the rest of the student body as well. Original means, unique, one of a kind. And that is what we are. We are Original.

Levi jeans, Coca-Cola, Elvis Presley, and the chocolate chip cookie. All were the originals, all are remembered, celebrated, and honored. Because of their contributions to our society, new ideas, thoughts, and products been made.

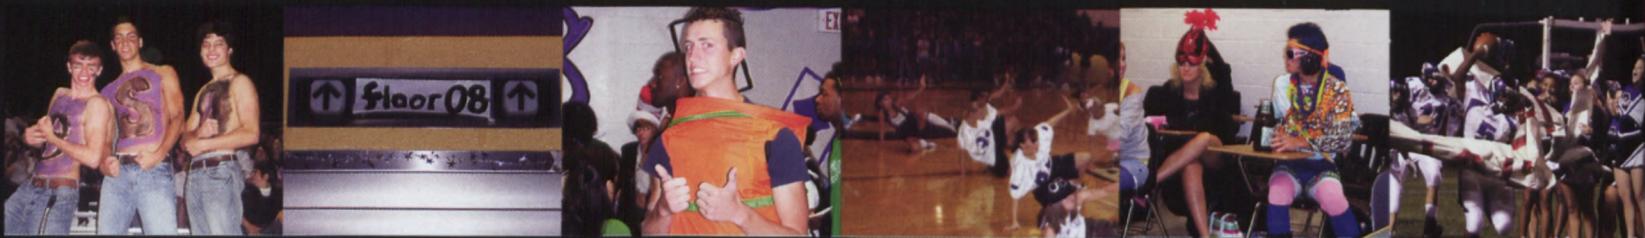

Originality never goes out of style. It is timeless, it is classic.

Because of the students at Battlefield High School, new things will be discovered, new roads traveled. We were the originals. We made the traditions. We were part of the first few years of Battlefield history. We will be Remembered. We will never be forgotten. We are The Original.

THE ORIGINAL

Student Life

Throughout our time, high school has been the easiest part of a persons' life. After this, we tumble into the college atmosphere filled with responsibility, followed by an entrance into the harsh reality that is the real world. However, our time is now, and we're making the most of it. The original seniors, class of 2008, have shaped the foundations of our school, and they won't be forgotten. And as we look back on the 4th year at the home of the Bobcats, we look back in time at how high school has changed through the years. Even when our parents were in our shoes the pep rally still shook the school, spirit week was filled with unbelievable outfits, and the dance started plenty of drama. So as we look at the amazing moments of our fourth great year, remember that we are part of a long tradition of high school insanity, and that the seniors that molded our foundations are entering the harsh aspects of reality.

Junior Gerald Khosa sits on a desk, showing off his pink pajamas he wore in honor of spirit week.

Mrs. Estaban enjoys the pep-rally because the drums make her heart beat faster.

Sophomore Bo Revell's favorite day of Spirit Week is Spirit Day because he gets to wear his varsity jersey.

"My favorite thing about Spirit Week is Spirit Day, because I get to wear a toga," said senior Jackie Arias.

Showing Our SPIRIT

Every year the week before homecoming is Spirit Week; a time when students show their school spirit by wearing class colors and showing off their Bobcat enthusiasm. Pajamas, crazy outfits, sports jerseys, cities, and class colors are all part of Spirit Week. For most, it is a time to show off your school spirit. Not only is Spirit Week about dressing up, it is also about the different classes. Competitions start with hallway decoration, floats for the parade, and the most spirited class at the pep rally. Seniors know the drill of Spirit Week, but it is a new experience for the freshmen. During Spirit Week, school is second priority. Students went all out this year for the Homecoming Parade, the Pep-Rally, and the battle of the classes with the hall decorating. This year the turnout for Spirit Week was greater than ever.

There is only one event over the course of the school year that simultaneously brings a sense of triumph, competition, embarrassment, and intimidation- the Pep Rally. All week, students go wild in anticipation of homecoming. The pep rally helps relieve that energy. The hierarchy is especially profound as seniors walk like royalty with crowns and gowns while forcing themselves through the stampede of oncoming underclassmen. Freshmen cower under the continual wave of jeers shouted at them, and sophomores are relieved to know that they are no longer in that position.

The '07 Pep Rally was, as expected, an insanely loud, adrenaline pumping, wild way to pump up the school before Battlefield's first ever Homecoming victory. Not to mention, an opportunity to see Coach Mello and Mr. Marsh race on toddler sized tricycles. The stakes are already set for next year...will Mello hold onto his title, or will Mr. Marsh overthrow the event's first champion?

The dance team held the gaze of all the guys, the cheerleaders kept the crowd pumped, and the football team made an entrance by giving a shout out to the toughest bobcat around, Corey Thacker. This was a rally to remember.

Can you hear those BOBCATS ROAR?!

The Longest YARD

The one sport that brings a smile to everyone's face and has for centuries, is football. This year's Homecoming Game was a huge success. The "original" fans were cheering louder than ever, and the half-time activities made the stadium shake. The students were not only excited for the game and half-time, but were equally excited about the Homecoming Dance that took place the next night.

The Friday night started out as a windy, cool evening. Before the game began, the seniors paraded in with their "It's Good to be on Top" spirit. This year's homecoming game was against Osbourn: the Conti vs. Conti game.

The half-time show was lead by the Bobcat Dance Team with their "Shook Me All Night Long" dance. After the Dance Team performed, the Marching Bobcats put on an extraordinary show that showed their support for the football players and Homecoming nominees. Next up was the homecoming court. Blake Santos and Chanel Figueroa were crowned King and Queen. Previous alumni Julie Wood and Mike Nkwanga were present at the game to crown the new King and Queen. Thanks to outstanding performances and a victorious game, all Bobcat fans went home with smiles on their faces.

Blake Santos and Chanel Figueroa pose for a picture after being crowned Homecoming King and Queen. Despite the windy night Chanel manages to not appear wind-blown and Blake holds onto his crown.

Rufus, the school mascot, cheers with the fans after the Band performance. The Band's outstanding show proved just how great they really are.

The Bobcats and the Osbourn Eagles set up for the next play during the intense second quarter, where the Bobcats led the Eagles 5-0. The Bobcats ended the game with a win of 26-6.

A Night IN THE CITY

Battlefield's Homecoming Dance was inspired this year by four prominent cities: New Orleans, New York, Los Angeles, and Las Vegas. The school was decorated for the dance with photographic banners of the cities, and lit-up cut-outs of cities, and the courtyards stringed with mood setting lights allowing students to admire the beautiful night sky. The dance floor was full of students enjoying dancing with dates and friends. "Crank Dat Soulja Boy" was the hit song of the night, with half of students performing the steps. Others struggled along with laughs as they tried to follow the music video projected on the gym wall, a new addition to Battlefield's Homecoming.

Off the dance floor, students enjoyed refreshments in the commons area, including fruits, cheeses, and punch. Students dressed to impress giving each person that feel in the spot light setting, the right atmosphere for the night. Dancing as if there were no tomorrow, students were set to go after eating dinner at elegant restaurants. Some students flocked to Japanese steak houses, and more elegant restaurants like Bonefish Grill and the Melting Pot. While others enjoyed a relaxed atmosphere at IHOP, Ruby Tuesday's, or Uno's.

Other students had alternate homecoming plans. They went to parties, hung out with friends, went to Frightfest at King's Dominion, or spent a quiet evening in.

No matter what students did on Homecoming Night it would always be remembered.

1. Freshman Eric Best pimps the dance floor dancing with four other girls.
2. Senior Rachel Satterwhite takes a break from the craziness with Ian Shaw (from BDHS) as he leans in to kiss her to top off a perfect and memorable night.
3. Senior Desmond Walker "walks it out" on the dance floor.
4. As the night slowly ends, everyone parties it out as they "Pop Lock and Drop It" at Battlefield.

What I want to be

WHEN I GROW UP

Battlefield students were interviewed and asked what they wanted to be when they were little. But many students' original ideas are not the same anymore. Some students went from wanting to be teachers and superheroes to lawyers and business people. Some students are already working towards their aspirations in life by involving themselves in similar work environments. It is amazing how our passions change over time. If these students keep up the good work, they could be the leaders of the future business world.

Everyone goes to high school to get good grades and be in as many extracurricular activities as possible, all so they can have a stable career. A lot of people go out and get a job to earn some extra cash. However, everything that they do now will help them gain experience for the real world. This is why having an idea of what you want to do with your life is so important.

Also, the classes that students take in high school are major contributors to the definition of what these students decide to do for their careers. For example, if someone takes a business class because every other class was full, and they end up loving the class, then this person could end up becoming successful in the business world.

Listening to music;

LIVING LIFE

Music. It is a huge part of our lives. It wakes us up in the morning, encourages us through the day, is a source of entertainment, helps us through hard times, and helps us relive good memories. Music is the story of our lives. Songs tell stories, they tell of hardship, triumph, happiness, and love.

During the year, especially the summer, we flock to concerts to hear our favorite artists and bands put on a show. It is a time to celebrate music, hang out with friends, and have a great time.

Nissan Pavilion is host to some of the biggest names in music over the summer. Brad Paisley, Rascal Flatts, Brooks and Dunn, Dave Matthews Band, Gwen Stefani, Taking Back Sunday, My Chemical Romance, Nickelback, and Aerosmith are just a handful of bands that performed there this past year.

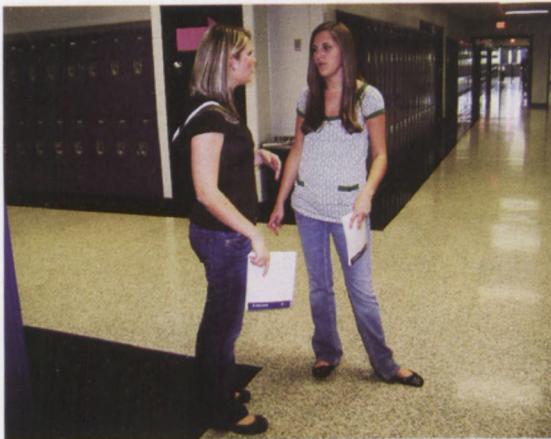

Students at Battlefield come to these concerts in droves. Friends gather in the parking lot to tailgate, eating off the grill, listening to favorite music stations, and waiting for the real show to begin. Then, when the show is about to begin, they pack into the lawn, trying to get the best view of the band, or those with lucky seats scurry to the front.

No one can quite describe the feeling when all the lights go out, fans start screaming, and the band walks out on stage. The air is full of energy.

And we dance and sing along, with smiles and on our faces, laughing with the people whom we love the most. Just having a plain good time.

Concerts are times for memories. Good food, good friends, and great music. It is a time to come together and celebrate. That is what music is all about.

Timeless FASHION

Audrey Hepburn, a fashion icon of the 1950s inspired a lot of styles of fashion reoccurring today.

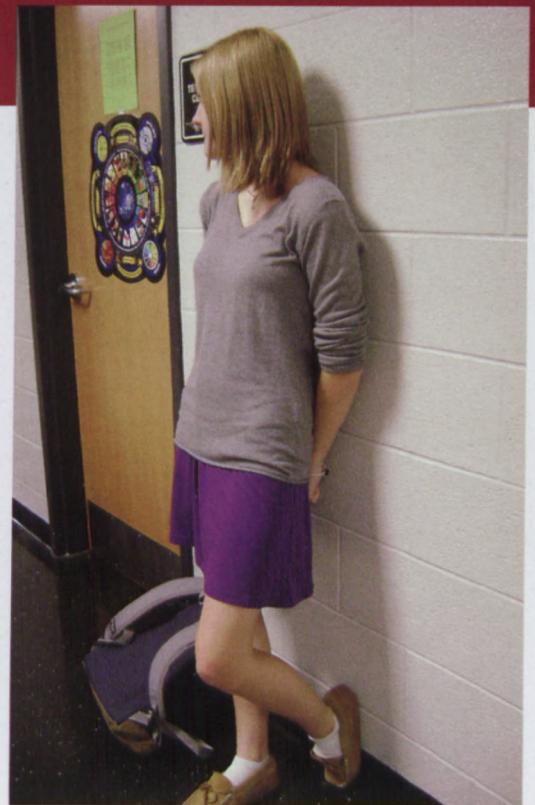

In Battlefield High School you see many of today's latest fashions. You might see your best friend wearing the latest thing from Abercrombie or American Eagle. But where do these styles really come from? Today's fashions have come from the past decades or from many different fashion icons such as Audrey Hepburn or Twiggy. Both of these women have been recognized for their elegant styles. Audrey Hepburn is known for her grace and beauty. She was often seen wearing straight leg jeans with a pair of flats.

Twiggy was known for her elegant styling of mascara and clothes. Twiggy often drew thick eyelashes on herself. These are now called "twiggys". These fashions have repeated over time, modifying as they move through the years.

Fashions come from other places as well, from heros or simply from the heart. In the fashion world there are both leaders and innovators, both original and new. Fashion is and always has been an expression of the person underneath.

After the Bell Rings...

WHO WE ARE

The sad sound of summer ends when the first ringing of every students' alarm clock goes off. Students do not have any choice but to leave their lazy days of summer fun behind to start the crazy days of fall work. Now the students have weekends and any spare time they can find after school. All that is left of sweet summer are the memories we carry in our hearts and the pictures everyone can see on Facebook and Myspace. When asking what the students did over the summer we got many different varieties of answers. Anything from junior, Sam Schuller's, " I went scuba diving in Fiji for two weeks with Beakes.", to senior Catie Gaegler's,

"My friends and I played some serious 'A-to-A' (Apples to Apples) at Courtney's house." We also found out that senior Kyle Corwin "saved lives" and freshman Kenneth Barros went to the pool every single day of his summer vacation. Sophomore Taylor Driesell spent her summer mastering the skills of field hockey at JMU and lived at home babysitting her little siblings. So, overall students found fun and interesting things to do with their spare time and it looks like either they had time to go to the other side of the world or only time to go to the neighborhood swimming pool.

It's better to give THAN TO RECEIVE

Throughout the summer and the school year, students have been giving back to the community in a big way. From mission trips, to volunteering at local facilities, or simply donating old items students at Battlefield have contributed.

Mission trips are a great way to help others while at the same time building a bond with friends. Most trips involve hands on activities, such as building houses and helping with relief from natural disasters. Sophomore Alex Ross joined senior Melissa Land over the summer in West Virginia for a mission trip. After their trip Alex stated, "I like to volunteer because it helps my soul." Though it can sometimes get messy, it is worth it to see a smile on someone's face.

In addition, the American Red Cross is an example of an organization that has made a huge impact in today's society. Not only can you volunteer with the Red Cross, but you can donate blood. However, you have to be at least 17 and meet the list of requirements (sorry freshmen!). Every spring Battlefield sponsors a blood drive, but you do not have to wait till then; look into nearby hospitals and see if you can help save a life.

Volunteers are not paid, not because they are worthless but because they are priceless.

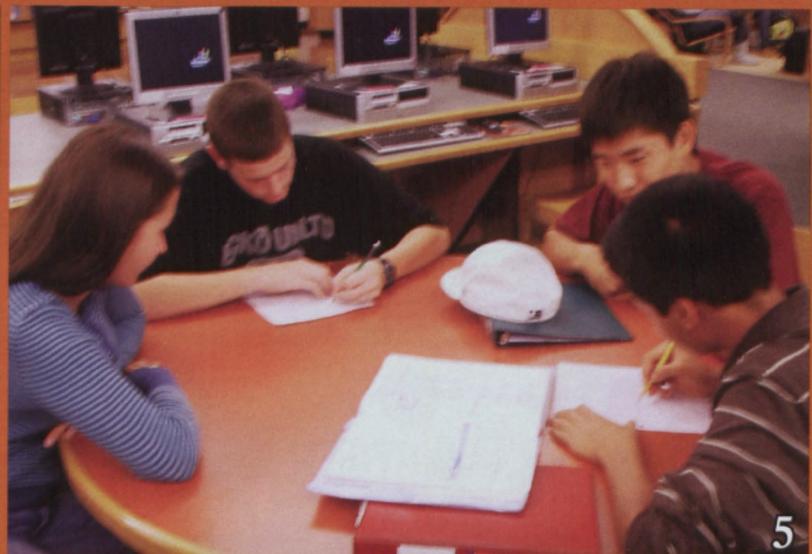

1. These two posters, though very different, still send out the same message: volunteer and help save a life!

5. Seniors Kaitlyn Sutherland and Josh Jang met after school for NHS to help tutor underclassmen to further their education.

6. Junior Matthew Kenyon volunteered at the Pumpkin Pandemonium hosted by Battlefield. An array of activities including a moon bounce and face painting helped to create a fun filled day.

1. Senior Larissa Kruesi helps a customer with their purchase at nearby Giant.

2. Battlefield students have made a large contribution to Giant's great staff, including senior Scott Donelson.

Every spring at Battlefield High School, the English department hosts an interview day. English teachers have students create resumes and dress up for the occasion as if it were a true interview process. Businesses from around the area come in and conduct the interviews, such as Micron, Target, The Gainesville Times, Uno's Pizza, and the Army. Sometimes the businesses even hire students. This opportunity allows students to step in the business world in a safe environment, preparing them for their futures.

Senior Thanh Nguyen works at Blush Bridal Boutique in Atlas Walk. "I work more to stay out of the house than for the money, and I really enjoy getting to know the brides-to-be."

Working in the REAL WORLD

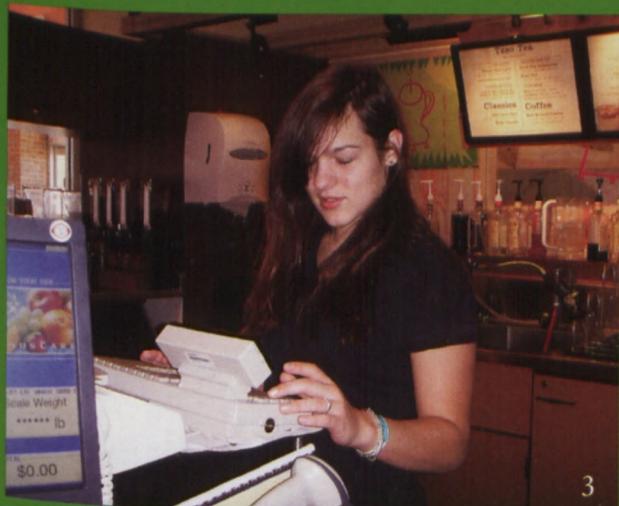

All high schoolers need some extra cash, right? But unless you have parents who are willing to help you out, some sort of a job is needed. Most students who have jobs work in the service industry, i.e. cashiers, waiters/waitresses, sales people, etc. Others get simple neighborhood jobs such as doing yard work or baby-sitting. With this hard earned cash, students can buy things like iPods, cell phones, or new clothes. Often times, students make smart moves to secure their future. They open bank accounts to save their money for later use. At this point in life high schoolers are constantly pressed with financial needs; money for car payments, car insurance, and college tuition (though hopefully not all of it).

Teenagers typically begin getting jobs during their sophomore year of high school. Everyone wants to work somewhere "cool." In the Gainesville/Haymarket area some places include Target, Cold Stone, Starbucks, Rita's, Giant, and a plethora of others.

Though most people work to earn money, there are always some that work to gain experience with people. Learning how to talk and present themselves is an important skill to have and necessary when entering the real world.

LAUGH OUT LOUD

Nothing could get you through the school year besides the fun times. If it's laughing up a storm with your girls or getting rowdy with the guys everyone knows fun is the only thing people want to do. When it comes to school get together or just friends hanging out the laughter is outrageous. Sometimes students have embarrassing moments that other students find absolutely hilarious. Most of the time if a funny moment was about one person it is embarrassing for that one person. No matter who is laughing at you eventually you think it's funny. Funny moments could be painful, hysterical, emotional, or just plain hilarious, but no matter what it's the funny times in life that make your days positive and fun. "A good friend helps you up when you fall, but a best friend helps you up once you've fallen but then trips you again and laughs hysterically." That quotation is a good example of what really brings you and your friends closer which is the best and funniest times in your life.

People

The following pictures should not only be seen as “just some mugshots,” but as memories made. Ten years from now, we may pick up this old dusty yearbook, just for fun, and realize that these were the people who made us who we are today. There are people in our lives who may stick with us until we’re old and gray, and there are friends we may lose within the month. Either way, we need to make the most of our time with them because one day, just like the class of 08’, we’re going to be wondering where the time went while we’re putting on our caps and gowns. No, these are not just pictures, these are the people who built, and continue to build us, as adults. Remember the fun you had with these friends, continue to make memories, and look forward towards your future with them.

SAVING LIVES

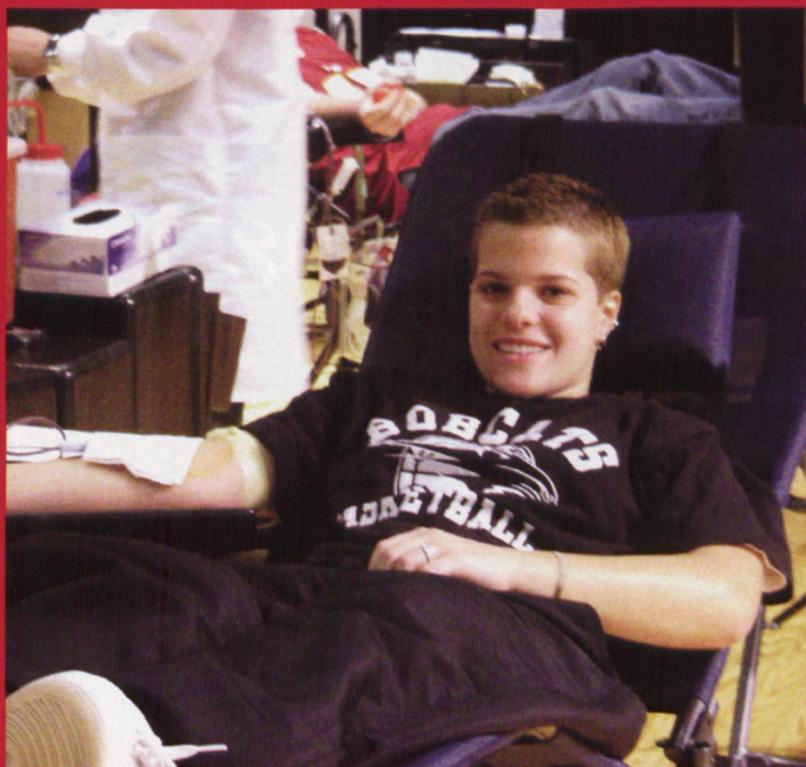

On December 11th, many juniors and seniors took a trip to the auditorium where they gave blood. Students had to be at least seventeen years of age, 110 lbs., and have parental permission to give blood. Once there, students were asked some preliminary questions and had their fingers pricked. Then, they were taken over to reclining chairs to have a pint of blood taken. The needle was inserted into the crease of their arms into a vein. Blood donors squeezed a stress ball every few seconds to pump the blood into the bags. After they were done, a kind volunteer helped them get a free snack and drink while they waited for a few minutes to lose possible dizziness. Once cleared, students returned to class and were told to take it easy for the rest of the day. Seniors, Josh Jang and Kaitlyn Sutherland, both remarked, later in the evening that donating blood made them excessively tired by the end of the day.

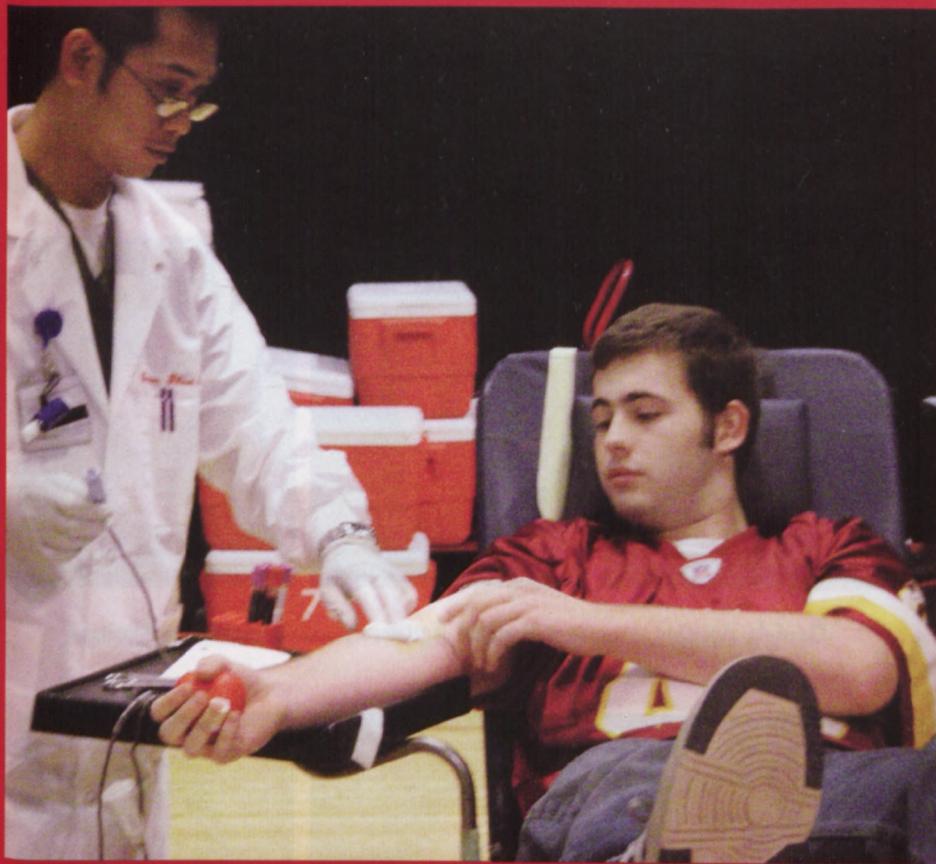

The short 30-45 minutes that participants spent in the auditorium that day may have not seemed like a big deal to them. Perhaps they were taking the opportunity to get out of class or doing it because a friend was. Whatever the reason, these students little decision to donate blood saved a life somewhere. At the time of the blood drive, Christmas was quickly approaching; students likely had plans of shopping for gifts on their minds, while their blood was being taken. Just as likely though, the thought of what they were doing at the time, donating blood, was one of the best gifts they could ever give that Holiday Season. They gave the gift of life to someone in need.

WHY DID YOU DECIDE TO GIVE BLOOD?

My name is Callen Gosselin. Last year, I along with some of my friends, entered into National Fine Arts Festival.

National Fine Arts is a huge competition where tons of kids come out and use their artistic talents to compete. Last year my friends and I decided that we wanted to enter into a songwriting division and see how far we could go. Our band consisted of a piano, bongo, electric guitar, singer, and cello.

We were totally psyched about getting together and finally writing a song. We started to write and it actually turned out to be more than we expected. We started to call ourselves a band and play a couple gigs. Then we finally named ourselves Collaborated A.

We went to District Fine Arts for the qualification round with a lot of other kids in our church. We had to play our song in front of three judges and they all had to give us a score and the average had to pass us into Nationals. We were totally stoked when we found out we made it. We were headed to Nationals in Indianapolis in the summer with all of our friends.

When we finally got to Nationals it was really cool because there were so many kids there, probably about 14,000 kids from around the nation. I'm not quite sure how many people were in our category, but we looked at the competition and it was pretty tough. We went in and played our song and totally rocked out and had an awesome time. At the end of the week at the awards ceremony we found out that we got fourth place in the nation.

It was a great moment for us, being ranked fourth in the nation is a huge deal. It's something I'll remember forever. **”

Cantaloupes United is a 12-man dodgeball team from Haymarket, VA. The team plays in the Northern Virginia Dodgeball League at Total Sports, Manassas.

Manager/Captain- Zach Grigsby

TEAM

Kyle Brady*, Marty Dawson*, Nate Dressel, Zach Grigsby, Austin Kim*, Ryan Matheson*, Matt Passarge*, Sebastian Paniagua*, Ashton Robertson, John Rafaels, Matt Redabaugh, and Stevie Woodward (* = Starting Six)

Q: Do the rules differ from the movie Dodgeball?

A: They were a little different. We played by a modified version of the NADA rules.

Q: When did you all play?

A: We played during the summer league. It started around the last two weeks of school and ended right before the new school year began. We played on Thursday nights from about 7-9 pm.

Q: So who did you all play?

A: Who didn't we play? Next question.

Q: How many games did you play a night?

A: Well we played two matches a night and each match was best-out-of five.

Q: Was Cantaloupes United good?

A: I'd like to think so. We won a lot of games but had our share of losses as well. There was actually only one team (out of all 4 times we played them) we couldn't manage to beat. Whether it was a 3-0 loss or a 3-2 loss in overtime, they always managed to walk away with the win. Kudos to them. I respect a well-earned victory.

Q: Did you have practices?

A: If you call playing a couple games then piling into a truck to go eat KFC's chicken bowls then yes, we practiced.

Q: Last question, what made you all want to start a Dodgeball team?

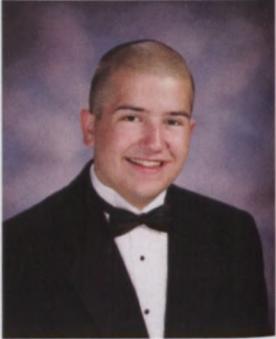

A: Have you seen Hulk Hogan's mustache? It's glorious.

Over the past four years my dad has become friends with Butch Taylor, the key board player in Dave Matthews Band. I'm not really sure how they met but it's still pretty neat. When the band comes to Nissan Pavillion every summer, Butch will call up my dad and ask him to come over in the afternoon to drink wine or see the sound check.

Every summer we go down to Palm Beach to see a couple shows but this year I didn't think we'd go because my brother's off at school. Then Butch and my dad talked and the next thing I knew I was on a plane to Florida. The guys in the band are all amazing people. They're so talented and they're genuinely nice guys. They're all from Virginia so it's neat to talk about schools and places that we like around here. I've gotten to go out to dinner with the band, swim in the ocean with Dave, just have amazing conversations with really creative people. They are memories I'll have forever. It's the most amazing thing watching the guys play and then be able to go back to your hotel and hang out with them til the early morning. It's kinda surreal looking through all my pictures from the past few years but it's something I love and look forward to every year. **”

For Love of the Game: DANIEL BUDREIKA

Dedication. Persistence. Perseverance. Tenacity. These words can be used to describe my pursuit of landing an internship with a Major League Baseball organization.

After associating myself with Battlefield's baseball team during my freshman and sophomore years I decided the program was not for me. I decided to pursue my true passion: The business of baseball.

I was knocked down countless times by numerous baseball organizations during my search for an internship. On a frigid day, in February of 2007, the Washington Nationals notified me that I was chosen to intern in their Ballpark Operations Department.

My 2007 summer revolved around baseball. I worked 4-5 days a week at RFK stadium in Washington, D.C. While with the organization I delivered mail to the clubs, executives, and players down in the clubhouse. I was privileged to catch batting practice behind home plate on the field before each home game.

Other duties of mine included enhancing fan experience on a daily basis, working undercover security, and dealing with the organization's promotional activities at the ballpark. In July, I met President George Bush at the stadium while he celebrated his birthday with the Nationals President, Stan Kasten, and GM, Jim Bowden.

This internship allowed me to create excellent contacts and learn more about the industry I love. Most importantly, it confirmed my passion for this business and jump started my career.

As Marsha Sinetar once said, "Do what you love and money will follow." This couldn't be more true about my aspirations to one day become a General Manager of a baseball organization. Then I can one day look back at this special opportunity the Nationals afforded me back in high school and remember how it all started. Dedication. Persistence. Perseverance. Tenacity. These words can be used to describe my pursuit of landing an internship with a Major League Baseball organization. **"

The baby, spuds, handsome, baby boy, little bug...I hear these words many times a day, heck, half the time I am the one saying them. The fact of the matter is, as of last May, that baby became my life. Nathan is my nephew, so of course I loved him from the beginning like I do all my nephews, and of course my niece. That has always been a top priority in my life - to be part of theirs. But Nathan was one that I got to have a special part in. I was babysitting him from just a few days old. Rachel, my sister and his mother, is a single mom so I got a huge opportunity to help out, a lot! Nathan is the new arrival, not quite 5 months old (as of November). He is the joy of my life. He isn't mine of course, but in a lot of ways I feel very responsible towards him and I feel like I have a special part of his life. What we have together is unique.

My senior year did not go quite as I expected. I began watching and taking care of my nephew, Nathan. He was born in May, 2007. He is my full time job. When I first began to watch him the summer before my senior year I was really excited. As I got more into it though, I realized how much responsibility I had. There were some days that I wanted to quit, but as I watch him grow and develop I realize it has been one of the most amazing and rewarding experiences of my life. I know it's worth it every time he looks at me and smiles.

The really hard thing about my relationship with Nathan is that I have so much to do with his life now and I will be leaving soon after graduation. I have so much I want to teach him, that I want to be a part of. I love seeing him grow every day, smiling, laughing with alarming frequency, learning to grab his toes, gurgling, and even eating baby food now. I see what he learns every day and it amazes me. I want to see it forever. I am really excited about everything I am about to get into after graduation. I just know that a part of my heart will be left here with "my" baby when I leave. **"

My Hidden Talent:

ARYAN MAZLOUM-YAZDI

“My name is Aryan Mazloum-Yazdi. Gymnastics has been a part of my life ever since I could remember (you could say I was born into it). I started out as a gymnast representing the competitive boy’s team of GMS gymnastics. When I started, I was a Class 7 Gymnast, and through the years I was able to work my way up to a Class 4 Gymnast (3 away from Elite). My favorite event was the parallel bars exercise and my best event was Vault. I always had people asking me if I was ever scared to do flips or dismounts, and my answer was always “no.” I always thought that doing what seemed scary to others was rather “cool” and “exciting.” I also earned a first place, State Champion on the Vault exercise and a third place, State All Around. One of the hardest skills that. I sometimes had trouble with was called a Peach Basket to Hand. During which you would do a handstand on the parallel bars and swing down towards the ground and ricochet yourself above the bars (letting go of course), doing a back flip and catching the bars again on your hands.

Now I am currently working as a gymnastics coach at GMS Institute and I am the head coach of uneven bars, vault, and tumbling for levels 4 and 5.

I really love the sport of gymnastics and always will, I believe that gymnastics is the most challenging sport, both mentally and physically. As I grow up and move on with my life, I hope that I will always have gymnastics as a part of me. ”

"I am Eva and I am an exchange student from Germany. I decided in November 2006 to attend one school year in an American high school. I get the opportunity to get to know another country, to get to know people, to learn English, and to experience the American high school. So what is the great difference?

I came here on August 25th, 2007 and my first impression was: "wow, everything is so big!" Really everything! The cars, the streets, the houses, the supermarkets and especially the school. It was the first time I was overwhelmed by the amount of people who were moving. I was lost. In Germany I have attended a big school, too. We have like 1600 students in grades 5-13 (Yes, I have to go to school for 13 years). But we have 2 buildings and the students of grades 5-10 are divided in classes which always stay together in one classroom. And the teachers are moving from class to class. Furthermore the students aren't late, the teachers are!

The good thing is the teachers aren't that strict with the students when they are late. It is more easy-going. If you are late you usually just have to bring a cake to next class as an excuse. In general German schools aren't that strict and don't have that many rules. We don't need a hallway pass when we want to get anywhere. Moreover we are allowed to go outside on our breaks. That is really what I miss. You have to sit the whole day in the school building, which does not even have windows. You have this nice weather in Virginia while in Germany it is always rainy!

Battlefield is a very organized school compared to my German school. In addition you have a lot more employees. You have guidance people, attendance, nurses, and security. We have some guidance people. But that's it. There are no nurses or security. We need some in special areas but usually you won't find security at German schools. But people don't expect security oversight at school. They are just trustful.

I also get to know that Americans are much more friendly and open and in a good-mood than the most of the Germans are. I love it. Everybody welcomes you with a, "how are you?" and wants to talk to you. Also I experienced that people are more career-orientated and hard-working. For example you have clubs after school where you do things like volunteering in order to get accepted in a good college.

Moreover I find out that more people fall asleep in school, which I totally can understand. School is more exhausting. You write so many tests and quizzes. We are graded 50 percent by participation in the classroom. So if you speak a lot and participate in discussions you get a good grade. Furthermore you spent most of your time in school. In Germany I had a lot of more free time.

The reason why I like the American high school very much is because you have school-spirit, which includes this funny spirit week or school colors! You have so many school sport teams! Try to find football or lacrosse in Germany! All we know is soccer! Further you have so many clubs... sure you can do sports or different clubs in Germany too but they have nothing to do with your school.

Eva and friends in Marburg, Germany.

Eva at the famous Rhein river in Duesseldorf.

Now you see I found out a lot of differences. It is interesting and exciting to discover another culture. You often can't say that things are negative and positive. It is just different. I was open enough to explore the differences. For me it is an experience I won't want to miss. **"

Dancin' All Over the World:

LAURA JACOBUS

“T his September, I was given the opportunity to travel to China. I dance with a competitive dance company which was chosen to represent the United States at the Beijing International Tourism Culture Festival. My first reaction was a little mixed. I realized that this travel opportunity would mean I would miss eight days of my senior year. That translated in my mind to eight days of missing three Advanced Placement classes. In anyone’s mind this would register as trouble. The more I thought about the trip though, the more it occurred to me that this was quite possibly the only chance I would ever have travel to China. So, I decided to go. As September 19 approached, the day of our departure, the more the excitement built. I love Chinese food, so I was thrilled about the prospect of Chinese three meals a day. I had my school work packed, my suitcase full of sanitizers ready, and my closed toed shoes ready to go. I was even excited for the 13-hour plane ride. After I arrived, I realized it was everything I had been looking forward to. I got to dance in parades that were larger than the Macy’s Thanksgiving Day Parade. It was like being a celebrity, everyone wanted to take a picture of me or with me, shake my hand, and touch my hair. It never stopped. My favorite part about the trip came when I got to walk up the Great Wall of China. It is such a beautiful sight, one can not say they have lived without seeing it. China is such a beautiful country, rich in culture and tradition, and I hope I get the opportunity to go back. ” and I was in the hospital for six days. I just had surgery last week (beginning of December) to remove a rip in my upper arm and to remove some muscle that was causing the clot. I have to take shots and be on blood thinners for couple more months. I would say it has changed my life a lot. I'm lucky to still be here. I've realized a lot of things and not to take things for granted. I try to let things go that make me mad or upset because in the end it's not worth being upset over and I've learned to live like there is no tomorrow.

As for football, I'm going to be playing in college but I have not decided on what college yet.

Other stuff is that I love to have fun. I'm usually with my best friends everyday (Austin Tuell, Erik Patterson, Joe Briethaupt) and I've known Austin and Erik since I was seven years old. I have a seven - year - old brother who means the world to me. One day I hope to be a college or NFL football coach. ”

The Next Two Prima Ballerinas:

EMILY AND GWEN PETRY

Our names are Emily and Gwen Petry, but most people know us as "Gwemily." What most people don't know about us, however, is that we love to dance. Ever since my mom can remember, she would find us dancing and jumping around the house, laughing and having fun. So she decided one day to sign us up for dance classes. Even though we were an American military family living off base in Germany, my mom found us a ballet class near where we lived. Once we moved back to the states, the first thing my parents did was look for another studio so we could keep dancing, and that is what happened every time we moved. Now, at 17, we are still dancing, but much more intensely than we did when we were three. We dance about 13-16 hours a week, taking mostly ballet, pointe, and a couple classes of modern, jazz, and musical theater. Not only have we auditioned for summer intensives for the past six years, but we have attended them for the past six summers. We have attended Cecchetti International twice, American Ballet Theater Alabama, American Ballet Theater Texas, and Atlanta Ballet's intensives, and have enjoyed every second of them. So, from our early beginnings, we plan to study dance in college and hope to become the next two Prima Ballerinas in New York, forever dancing to our hearts' content. "

“ Track and Field has been a big part of my life. I've been doing this thing for a long time. I started when I was in sixth grade as a hurdler. Sixth grade was the only time I ever thought of quitting a track team. The early years were rough, but by eighth grade I had the school long jump and 100 meter record. (They still stand today.) All through high school I've been the top long jump and triple jumper on the team. I hold both the school and area triple jump record. I also have the school long jump record. I'm the number one triple jumper in the area. I've been from Districts all the way to Nationals, both in Indoor and Outdoor seasons. I've received multiple honors: All-District, All-Area, All-Region, and All-State. This year I hope to get my last achievement and that is All-American. I hope to continue long jumping and triple jumping all through college. Who knows, maybe you'll see me on television at the NCAA Track and Field Nationals? Stay tuned.”

Please Recycle:

THANH NGUYEN

Parents, teachers, and pretty much anyone older tells you that you can make a difference in the world. What are the chances of that? It actually happens everyday and it could be something small. I guess that was what I thought; I could change the school and maybe my views on everything else. I thought why not get the school to recycle. We are in a fast growing community where trees are being cut and we are in an IT school where we use an enormous amount of paper, so why is it we don't recycle? I later found out we recycle only newspapers, which is not enough.

Ok, before we get any further, I'm not a tree hugger so don't use it against me. But I feel pretty passionate about changing the school and helping our global warming issues. I called businesses, the school board, and sent out e-mails for help to the mayor and anyone else I could think of. I couldn't give up I was on a roll, my stubbornness was finally paying off. I joined the environmental club and even got a nifty title as Public Representative Speaker, score another brownie point for college!

I couldn't believe it but I actually got a response from Mayor Stutz and school board member Don Richardson. I'd even managed to score a meeting with the principal, Mrs. Ethridge-Conti, and talked with her about a pilot program in our school to start recycling in Prince William County. I've gotten to work with great people in order to see this concept through and I would like to thank Mrs. Thumser for all her help.

I guess all I can do is cross my fingers and hope it all works out. But no matter what, I'll keep trying and hope to make a difference. At least I know I tried and that is what matters to me most, plus this experience helped me in a personal way. It helped me to be closer to my mom. This experience is something I'll remember for the rest of my life. **”

Air Force Junior ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) Program

Being in the Air Force JROTC (AFJROTC) program has been a great experience for me. This program includes leadership training, knowledge of military organization and customs, and it is helpful in developing life skills. Participating in physical fitness and wellness activities are also an important part of this program. There are extracurricular activities such as interesting field trips and opportunities to help further develop leadership skills. Last summer I had the opportunity to attend a leadership school with cadets from six different states to learn and practice my leadership and team building skills and to improve my mental and physical fitness.

The AFJROTC classes are a lot different than the other classes I have taken. This year I am in the Aerospace Science IV: Honors Ground School. This class is a little like taking the classroom portion for getting your driver's license. Instead of driving though, it is preparing me to take the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) Private Pilot Ground School written examination to help me earn my private pilot's license. Being in this class has strengthened my decision to want a job in the aviation industry. I feel that being a member of the AFJROTC program has enriched my high school experience, prepared me for college, and given me valuable life skills. ”

Freshmen Thoughts: What was your biggest fear coming into high school?

"My biggest fear coming into high school was being bullied by upperclassmen. They are very intimidating, and everyone told us to beware!" said Chris Morris.

Blair Claflin said that she was nervous about the older students putting her down. But she was glad to have an older sibling at the same school to look out for her and make the transition from middle school to high school easier.

Hard At Work

Coming into high school is a big adjustment. Freshmen have the disadvantage of having to adjust not only to a new school, but also to the increased workload. They strive to keep their grades up while participating in extracurricular activities, which are also more demanding and require more involvement in high school.

Right: Freshmen prove that they can stay focused during their classes. They work together and on their own to achieve their goals.

THE SENIOR'S VIEW

INSIDE OF BATTLEFIELD

THE ORIGINAL Scholars

No matter how old we are, we are always going to hate the fact that school is centered around academics. However, as we mature through our high school experience, we gain a better understanding of how important academics are to our future. As freshmen we seem to think that grades do not matter because we still have three more years. As sophomores we begin to understand that if those three years move as fast as the first then we do not have much time. Many juniors understand now that these academics are tickets to success, while seniors see the lasting effects of their work, or lack of work. Academics aren't just meaningless classes that seem to keep going on and on, but they are classes that guarantee the security of our future. So, while looking through these pages, view those who have made it through four endless, yet rewarding years of Battlefield Academics.

English teacher Mr. Lem brings out Kermit the Frog and Cookie Monster for his seniors to illustrate The Nun's Priest's Tale, one of Geoffrey Chaucer's famous Canterbury Tales.

Arts / NAHS

"Art is less important than life, but what a poor life without it," said sophomore Danielle Poulin.

Art is made up of sculptures, paintings and drawings from the blueprints created in a human mind. Some arts can express your emotions towards things that happened to you in life. In fact doing really any kind of art can tell someone about your personality or your life. You can see many forms of art in your day to day life.

From the beginning till the end of the year, all art students worked on many types of different projects. Art with a lot of shading and other forms of art with a lot of figure and color. Much of the artwork that students did was either hung or displayed all throughout the art classrooms. The National Art Honor Society also displayed their artwork all throughout the school showing vivid color for the faculty and student Bobcats. "These displays showed some very talented work," said junior Dhania Molina.

All the teachers in the art department hoped to see wonderful artwork coming from all of the art students this year. The students also wished to do a variety of assorted arts during the 2007-2008 school year. Many of the students agreed that art can be a lot of fun if you take a variety of art classes. Throughout all the different art classes, the students did many different projects that could have been easy or hard for them. Painting the path to the future is a challenging and creative work of art.

"I look forward to art class, because everyday is a new experience where I can build up new ideas," said sophomore Sam Reily.

Making & Celebrating MUSIC

TRI-M

Tri-M, which comes from the name, Modern Music Masters, is a music honor society that recognizes outstanding music performers, academically successful students, and leadership ability. Tri-M is made up of students from band, chorus, and orchestra.

This is Tri-M's second year in existence at Battlefield High School and it has begun to grow into a successful honor society.

Students often perform musical pieces for one another during meetings. Members also help younger, less experienced musicians with their sight reading, performing abilities, scales, and overall performance.

The sounds of music fill the hallways, as the Battlefield bands practice constantly for their performances. Energetic rhythms, beautiful melodies, long running notes, and slow mournful tunes...the band can play it all.

Band class was a time for learning. Mr. Brodt, the director, chose selections that would improve his student's abilities. Mixing around concert selections with classical, romantic, and modern pieces; the young musicians got a chance to play everything.

Perhaps the most rewarding time was when students had the chance to perform on stage.

2. Members in the Symphonic Band wait for the Concert Band to begin their show.
3. Seniors Matt Passarge and Scott Kuhn hang out after the Tri-M induction.
4. The Symphonic Band performs "El Camino Royal."
5. The band performs during the Winter Concert in December.
6. The three music teachers, Ms. Thiele, Mrs. Gregory, and Mr. Brodt, all give speeches during the induction ceremony for Tri-M.
7. Future members of Tri-M recite the pledge before becoming inducted.

CHORUS

SINGING IN THE MOMENT

DO RE MI FA SOL LA TI DO

They sing in unison and hit all the right notes. They are heard as one. As the different choirs enter the chorus room, their daily routine is to begin to warm up with vocal exercises by singing the major and minor scales. While the singers warm up their voices, Choir Director Ms. Gregory, makes sure everyone is on key as to make improvements to their performance pieces. The members of choir are young musicians who use their voices as their instruments. This year, Battlefield's Chorus Department was made up of six different groups. "We truly are preparing students for the performance of a lifetime. The skills they are learning will carry them throughout their entire lives," said Ms. Gregory. Each year students audition for All-County and All-District Choirs. This year Battlefield topped all other schools in the area by having fifty singers make All-District, and forty-six make All-County. The chorus students had the opportunity of a lifetime to travel to Ireland and England to sing in historic locations.

Choir Director Mrs. Gregory has been at Battlefield since the beginning and has made the choir room her home away from home.

Above: The singers of Bel Canto sing out with all they have, proving that they have developed voices of true women.

Left: Sophomore Colleen Savoia, senior Alison Potter, and junior Sydney Hunter work together to make the soprano stand out strong. Teamwork is key in chorus to make the voices sound as one.

Men's Choir, another audition chorus, is a prestigious group at Battlefield composed of talented gentleman who know how to show the fun in singing.

Chorus President Melissa Land, voted in by the members of the entire choral department, proved to the choir that she was the one for the job. From making introductions at concerts to out-of-school activities, Melissa showed that the responsibilities of President did not phase her.

The girls of Bel Canto warm up their voices before beginning to practice their pieces for their Winter Concert in December. Their hard work paid off, and the concert was a huge success.

Creative Writing

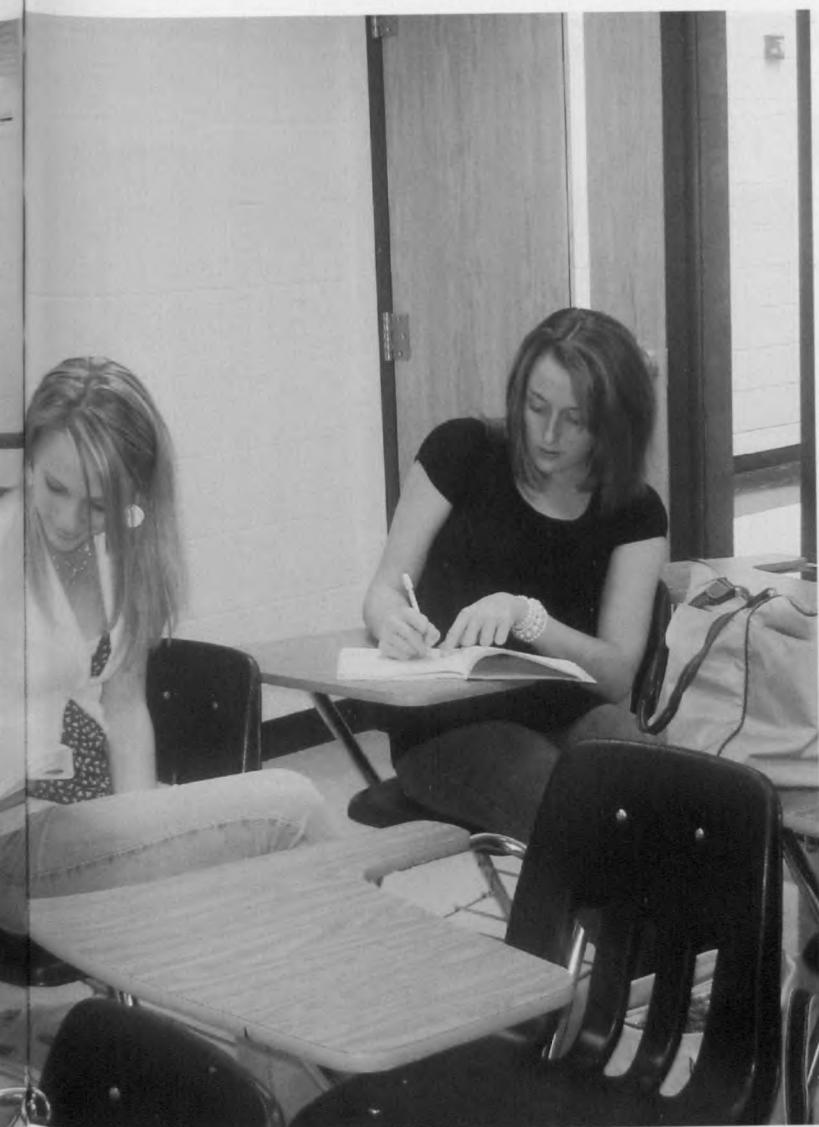

In creative writing I and II, students come to class ready to think and write in ways they are not used to in other classes. This past year was Mr. Lem's first year of teaching creative writing at Battlefield. In his class students enjoy having no limitations on imagination and freely taking their ideas where they want them to go. They look forward to new and exciting prompts each class. In creative writing, students can expect to write about anything from what they did over the weekend to writing a short story about the journeys of a sock. Every student had something positive to say about the class. Senior Esther Lee said, "Creative writing isn't just words written on paper with detail, but words that express our emotions into sentences." Most would agree that it was a very relaxing class. "The best part of my day is coming to creative writing. It's an awesome place to hangout with friends" said senior Jennifer Overbye. Junior Connor Tye said, "The laid back mood of the class lets me concentrate comfortably to help better my writing." Creative writing gives students an opportunity to improve and grow with their writing, and a great writer knows that he or she can always better themselves.

Our hands just grace
outside in the snow.
Watch them fall.
Together as we catch each of them in our palms together. We realize something more.
In this cold state
I feel so warm inside.
knowing someday or maybe
just for one day
I would catch him finally.
In the midst of the wind and his word would travel to me of how he was in love.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE

AIR FORCE JROTC

Chief Woodiel says, "He enjoys teaching the AFJROTC kids about science and history of aviation, drills, and drilling ceremonies."

Junior Josh Langhorn says, "He enjoys taking Criminal Justice to learn self-defense and to prepare himself for a life in the criminal-defense field."

The JROTC program was the lead of the National Anthem at all the football games.

This is Battlefield High School's first year having the Criminal Justice class available. Every Friday the class goes into the auxiliary gym to learn self-defense. Some of the maneuvers the students in the Criminal Justice class are learning this year include the use of handcuffs and how to use lethal and non lethal moves. When they are in class they are taught the laws of Virginia and the justice system of our government. As well as learning, they get to watch videos on real life issues that our justice system deals with.

The Air Force JROTC is a productive program that helps kids with physical fitness and manners. This program helps open up many opportunities to mold leaders and provide activities for the students after school. Students learn manners, how to march in formation, and to do the different turns involved in marching. Every morning the students in AFJROTC puts up the American flag and state flag in front of the school and also take them down in the evening. In December, the second year students took a trip to an Air Force base in Delaware to get a feel of what the daily routine is on an actually Air Force base. Once you get into the program you have a wonderful support system that can help you when you are having trouble in school or just when you need someone to talk to.

The JROTC showed their dedication to their country and state by holding their flags high in the air at the beginning of all the football games.

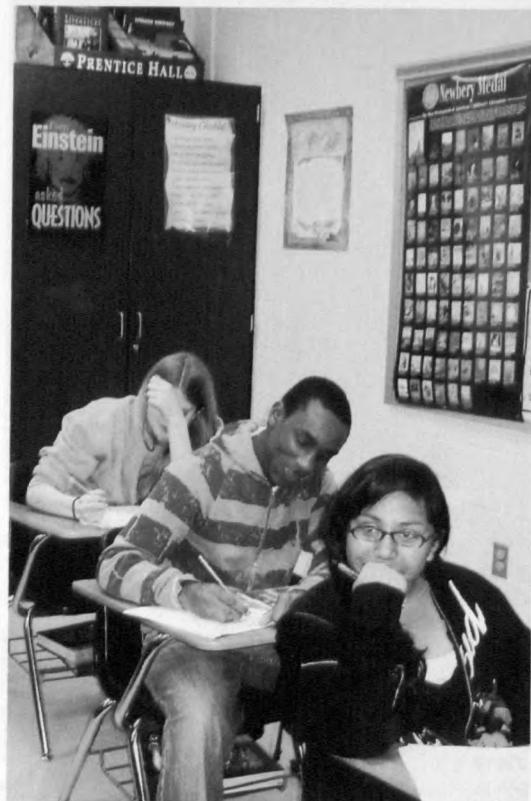

ENGLISH

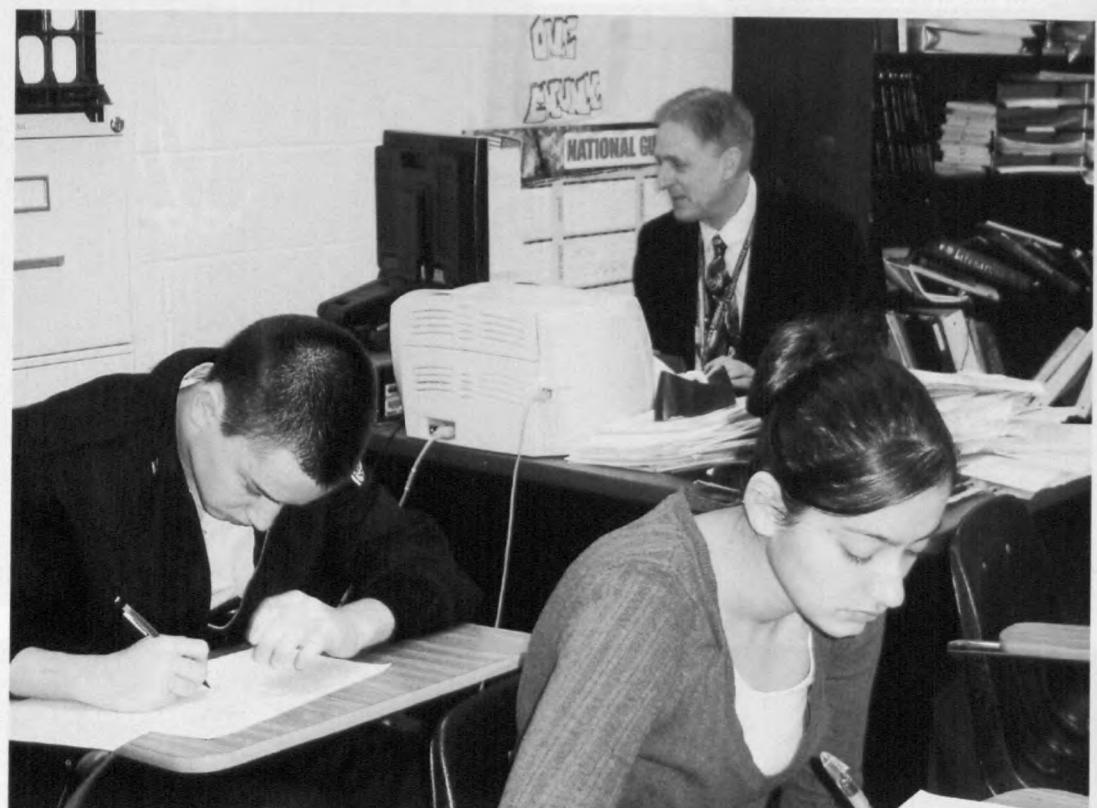

English is the subject directed at developing reading and writing skills taught in school. American Literature has always been viewed as something that has not been necessary to learn by students. In the students' eyes English is something that comes naturally. Learning certain things in English class, such as reading books or short stories, they are all not things that come to the brain without being taught. So there is no such thing as it all comes naturally. Most of high school students learn the things being taught in class easily when others have a hard time, which is where the teachers come in to help along the way. Not every teacher has the same grading system so some were easier than others. The English teachers of year 2007-2008 strived to get their students to graduation on time.

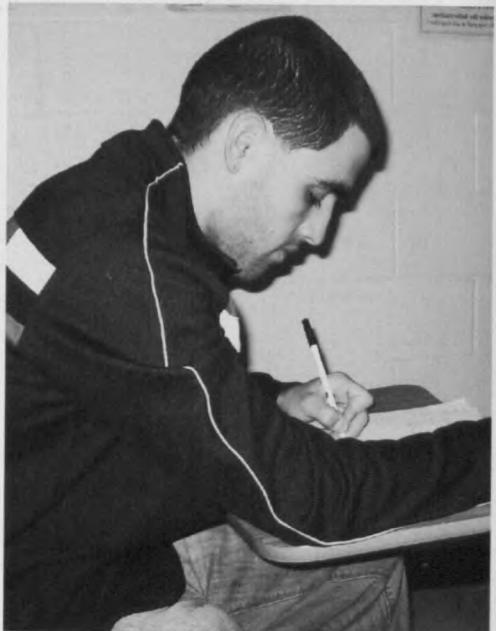

Senior year for students came a lot faster than anyone had anticipated. Every junior student is unfortunately required to do the eleventh grade research paper. It is not only a requirement of Battlefield it is also a requirement for all Prince William County Schools. Although each student is given the privilege to choose their own topic which gives them the advantage to research something they may already have a good idea about. All English classes can vary throughout any school with different teaching styles yet they all have the same guidelines, but all teachers have their own way of guiding their students to success. All of the different styles are believed to advance the students to best of their abilities. Seniors enjoy their last year of high school and have fun learning all about their final needs for college.

Foreign Languages

Thousands of different languages are spoken around the world. Some are more known than others and here at Battlefield several different languages are taught. From Latin to French to Spanish to German, students learn how to read and speak the language (with the exception of Latin, which is not spoken) and the culture surrounding it. Many students take a foreign language to help improve their vocabulary for English or the SATs, and some take it as a way to meet new people (others just take it because it is a graduation requirement).

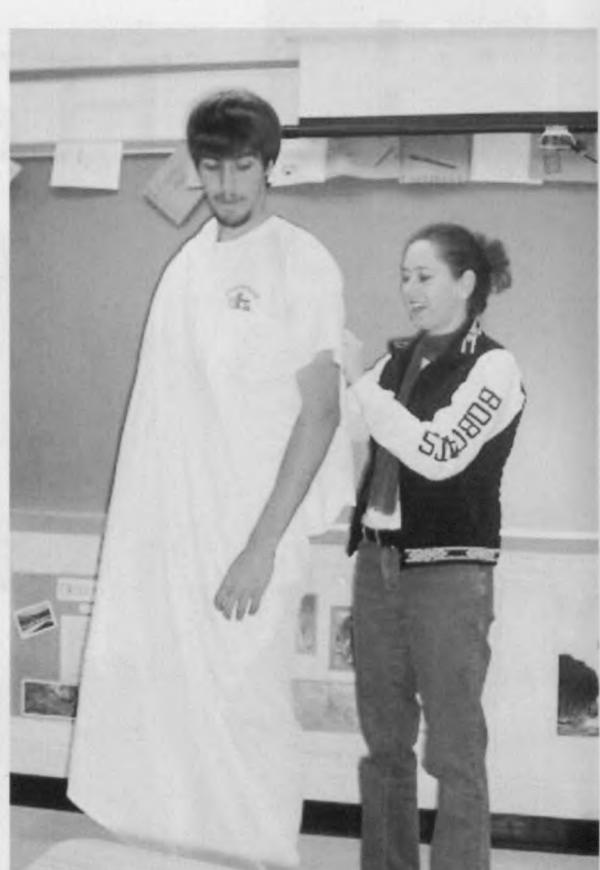

In addition, it helps connect students to the changing world around them. With more and more ethnic backgrounds coming together in the United States, different cultures are brought with them as well as the language they speak. By taking a foreign language, students are able to connect with those people when others are not.

Foreign languages are also fun, not just work. Students learn about the culture by eating food associated with the country, dressing up for Foreign Language Week, and participating in the ever so popular Soccer World Cup held at the end of the school year. These events allow students to connect to the world around us as well as enjoy some good times with friends.

Many students are also able to experience the culture first hand by actually traveling to a foreign country such as France, Spain, or Italy. There the students tour the country and learn all it has to offer. Most of the trips last about a week and the students come back more knowledgeable about the country. No matter what language is studied or how it is spoken, each one is important to the world around us and will help later in life.

HISTORY

Imagine a class where you travel back in time to wars, revolutions, and all the time in between, all while sitting safely in class. This year history came alive with help from teachers such as Mr. Rohrbach and Mr. Dittmer. AP classes challenged the students to broaden their outlook on history by writing numerous essays and having pounds of homework. Sure, the work load was unbearable at times, back pain from heavy textbooks was common, and there was a lot of reading, but we all came out with answers to past questions and a better understanding of the world around us. "History is one of the academic classes that is actually interesting. I think it's better to learn about history than numbers." says sophomore Brian Eanes. It is said that without history, there would be no progression, so learn from history and progress towards the future.

"Those who cannot learn from history are doomed to repeat it."

IT & ROBOTICS

The IT Department is the backbone of Battlefield High School. Offering classes in computer education and practical networking, Battlefield's IT Department is preparing our students for the future. Whether you are becoming a graphic designer, a networking specialist, or a programmer, the IT Program has what you need.

The IT Department at Battlefield prepares students for their upcoming careers in the rapidly advancing technological age. Students learn to work with computer systems and networks, which will become the basis of many jobs and careers in the future.

Following the theme of computers and technology is the Battlefield High School Robotics Team. The Battlefield Robotics Team comprises some of the greatest minds of Battlefield. These brilliant students spend months building, programming, and perfecting their assorted robots. One of these robots, RoboCat, is a champion of Battlefield. RoboCat goes to competitions and battles against other schools for school pride and bragging rights, as well as trophies. The Vex Team is a separate part of Robotics. They build smaller robots in a more individual setting.

JOURNALISM & QUILL AND SCROLL

With new leadership, teacher Mr. Cook and Editor In Chief senior Morgan Savoia, the journalism classes published three issues of their newsmagazine, "15000." Their year started out tough, trying to find a new printer, figuring out finances, and wrestling with the computer network. In the end though, the staff managed to put out their issues. As Mr. Cook said, "We've had our share of challenges this year, but it's been great to watch the students overcome obstacles and publish a quality school newsmagazine."

A typical journalism class consisted of reading The Washington Post, expanding journalistic vocabulary, and most importantly writing articles for publication. When asked about her responsibilities, Morgan Savoia said,

"Being Editor In Chief this year was a lot of hard work, but fun. I love my editing staff this year. They're great, talented people. I hope next year "15000" will continue on."

"Quill and Scroll honors the top students of '15000,' 'Lynxbook,' 'Purple Inc.,' and 'BCTV.' This is our school's way of thanking and recognizing the students for their literary achievements," said Mr. Lem, the sponsor of Quill and Scroll Honor Society. President of the Quill & Scroll, senior Sydney Taylor remarked, "Quill and Scroll is really interesting because it gives all of us an opportunity to see journalism in its many forms."

MARKETING

MARKETING, FASHION MARKETING, & SPORTS AND ENTERTAINMENT MARKETING

Battlefield High School offers a variety of marketing courses, including Sports and Entertainment and Fashion Marketing. The beginner level marketing class teaches the fundamentals and basic principles of marketing. This is the basis for Sports and Entertainment Marketing and Fashion Marketing. The more specific marketing classes participate in a number of activities in and outside of school.

The Sports and Entertainment class engaged in activities ranging from "Pumpkin Pandemonium" to the "Singing Bee" to "The Golden Apples." "Pumpkin Pandemonium" brought the community from Haymarket and Gainesville together and brought a lot of fun for the kids. They offered games such as the moon bounce and the pumpkin toss.

Fashion marketing also held events, such as the fashion show, which was a big hit for the students at Battlefield. The majority of the Fashion marketing class are members of DECA, a marketing club. Fashion marketing went on their second annual trip to New York, one of the fashion capitals of the world. They visited Madison Square Garden and got a behind-the-scenes tour of Macy's.

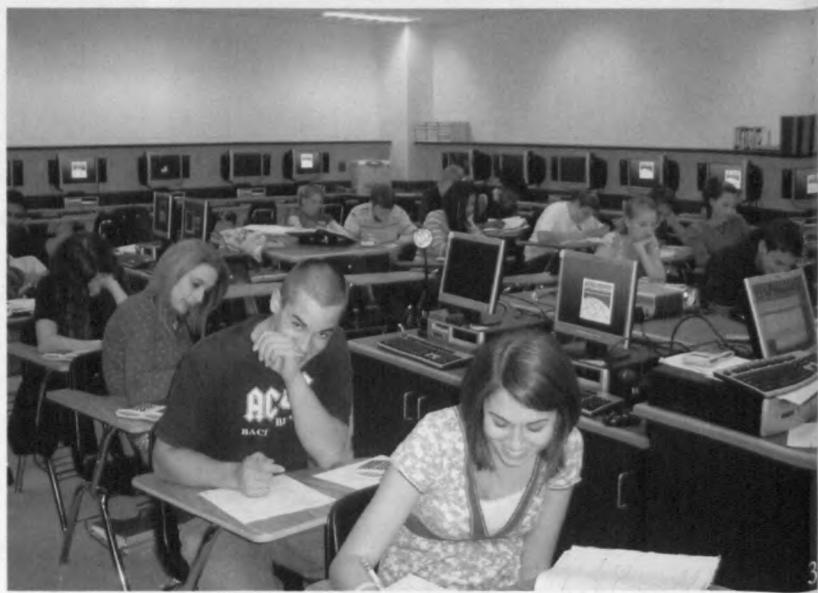

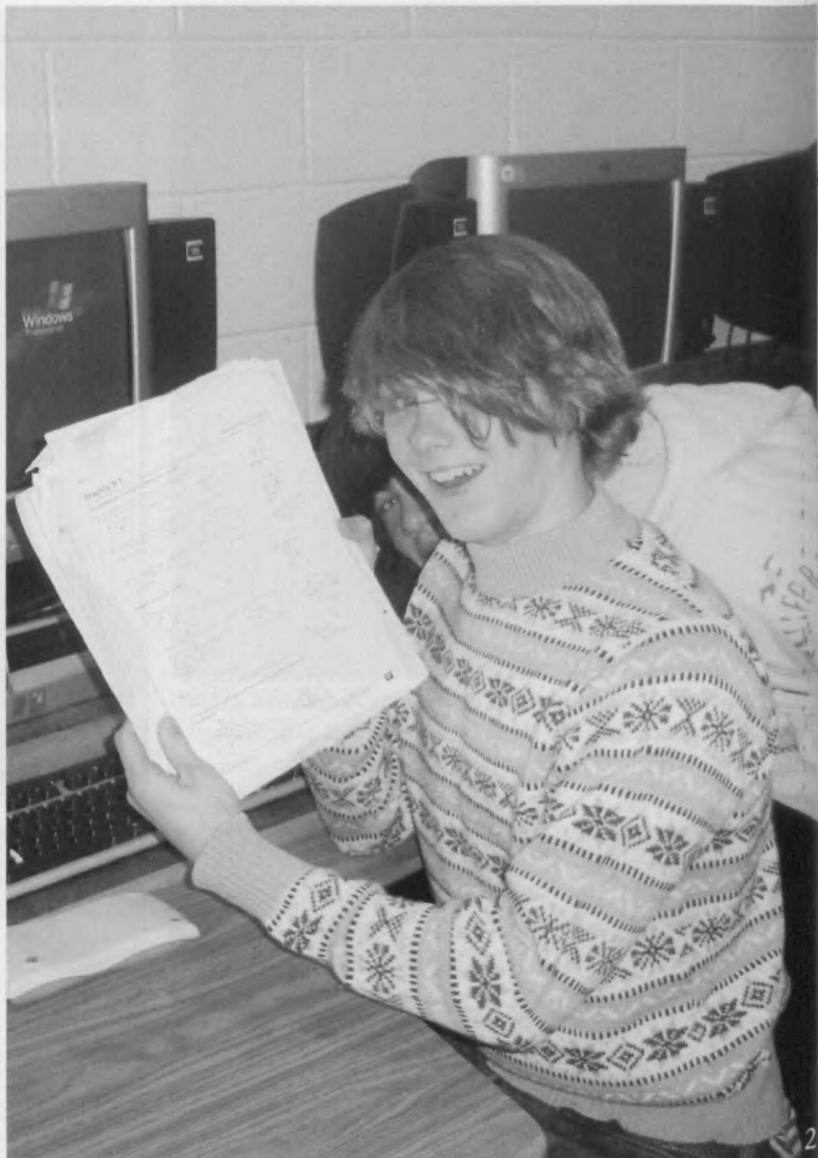

Marketing in any field gives you the opportunity to learn the essentials to succeed in a business. From competitions to fashion shows and behind the scene tours, Marketing are the bricks that make the house of success.

EASY AS 1, 2, 3

Remember back in the day, during elementary school where the only thing you had to learn was what $2+2$ was, your multiplication chart and long division? Yeah, those were the days...today in high school, math for us has become more advanced and has forced us to memorize equations like the Pythagorean Theorem, the quadratic formula and more. Senior Megan Devila (left) says that, "Math is usually black and white meaning that the answer is either right or wrong." So, believe it or not, there is a plus side to math.

This year in the math department, Ms. Macaleer was the first teacher at Battlefield to receive the Milken Award, which is a very prestigious award given to outstanding teachers like her. She also won a check with an amount of $25,000. She thanked her amazing staff and students for all their help and hard work.

Math is an essential part of an education. Whether it is Algebra I, Algebra II, Trigonometry, Geometry, or those brave souls who take on Calculus, taking some form of math in high school is inevitable. How is math important to everyone in the real world? Well, we need math everyday! To telling time, to driving your car at the correct speed, to buying things at the store and staying in a budget. It is almost a survival skill. Math is important to us in so many ways. Our math teachers deserve a great amount of respect for all their hard work in teaching us our newest skills.

BATTLEFIELD ORCHESTRA

Four years ago, Battlefield opened its arms to welcome students with all kinds of talent, especially musical ones. However, when the school first opened the orchestra was a rather small group with only two ensembles, Intermediate and Advanced. Today the orchestra has doubled in size adding two more ensembles, Concert and Chamber, for a total of four performing groups.

Ms. Thiele, the conductor, has been teaching her students the classic art of music and where it originated. Senior Katie Brown said, "I have had Ms. Thiele for eight years and it has been wonderful. She is a great teacher, and I have learned everything I know about orchestra from her." In class the students not only play the music of past composers such as Johann Sebastian Bach and Edvard Grieg, but they also learn the time period the music was from and how it influenced the culture or vice versa.

Throughout the year orchestra students prepare pieces for both the winter and spring concerts, and for the Festival Competition. At Festival, orchestras from around the county compete not against each other but against themselves to earn a Superior rating from the judges.

Orchestra is not just a class but a family of students who join together through music. It is hard work, but in the end it is always worth it. The students come together to create a beautiful sound not just for themselves, but for others to enjoy as well.

Below: The Intermediate Orchestra practices scales in class. Common scales students learn how to play are D Major, G Major, and C Major.

Orchestra has not changed much over time because the music has not changed. The instruments used are the same and the appearance of the group is just as important as it was 50 years ago. Just like the "original" picture above the members of the Battlefield Orchestra make sure to look their best for every performance.

Below: The Concert Orchestra tunes before the Winter Concert to prepare for the songs they will play, such as "March of the Meistersingers" by Wagner/Dackow and "Appalachian Sunrise" by Gazda.

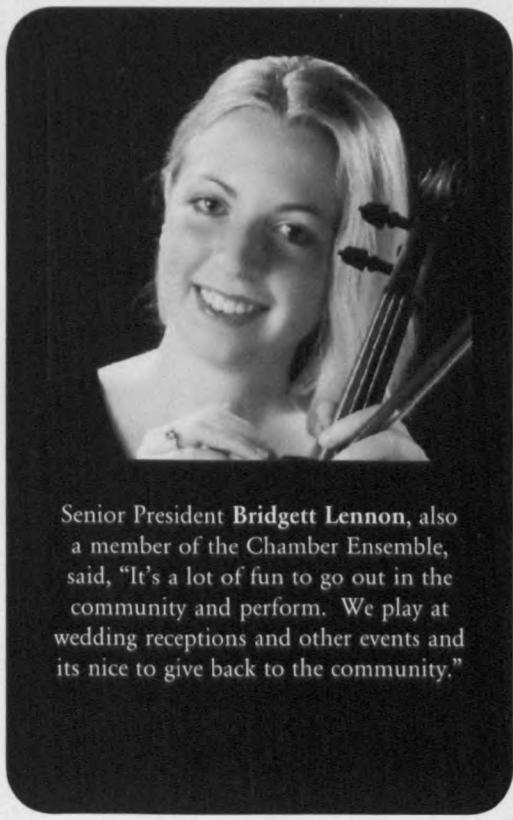

CONDUCTOR

Ms. Thiele has taught for many years at both the high school and middle school level. "I have loved music since second grade and teaching has given me a chance to show how much fun music can be. I want all my students, and everyone else for that matter, to enjoy music and the emotion it provokes."

Above: The Advance Orchestra works hard in class to prepare songs for upcoming concerts and events. Not only do the students play at concerts, but they also take on fund raising events like the Haymarket Bridal Show in March.

Senior President Bridgett Lennon, also a member of the Chamber Ensemble, said, "It's a lot of fun to go out in the community and perform. We play at wedding receptions and other events and it's nice to give back to the community."

PHOTOGRAPHY

Photography is a class that instructs students on how to properly take and process pictures. These young photographers only deal with black and white photos and do not even think about touching a digital camera. Students also deal with incorporating mood into their photos; an angle or color tone can completely change the mood and the way the photo is viewed. It is said that a photographer can create a better image with a simple click of a camera, than an artist can with a brush and years of work. Students don't just take pictures for fun; some have to have exact specifications for an assignment or project. In many cases, you will see photographers take over a hundred pictures in search for the perfect one.

SCIENCE

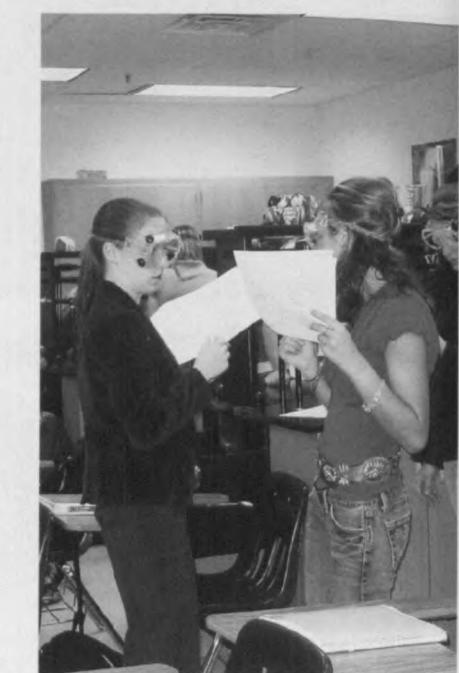

Look around outside and think about everything that you see. Every living thing connects to one another, which is the foundation of science. Science can help students explore the world and its functions.

The Battlefield High School Science Department includes Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, Forensic Science, Physics, Astronomy, and Oceanography. Students can explore science with experiments in chemistry and dissecting in biology. "Science is the essence of life," says junior Natalie Sullivan.

Unlike other classes where students are taking notes most of the time, in science classes students get to have fun with labs and experiments. Students can have fun with labs and apply them to real life. A large part of everyday life consists of science. Science can range from the molecular level of our genetic code, to the study of distant galaxies. Science exists with the aid of technology fused with creativity.

Junior Rachel Brigham said, "Science is the exploration of the unknown. The mystery of it all intrigues me while simultaneously urging me farther to discover." The internet is allowing kids more access more information about science and gives them the answers they may be looking for.

The National Science Honor Society here at Battlefield spreads the word of science to younger children by going into nearby elementary schools. They judge science fairs, do science experiments, and show kids just how fun and interesting science can be.

YEARBOOK

Yearbook aka Photojournalism is a great way to express yourself while also learning principles related to the business world. Yes, it is a relaxing and fun class, but it also challenges you to take responsibility for your work. The yearbook class allows the students to have a say in their yearbook and its' content. Each page of this yearbook is a direct result of Mr. Fitzgerald's 5th period Yearbook class and their efforts. Leadership for the class consisted of advisor Mr. Fitzgerald, Editor In Chief senior Rachel Satterwhite, and Financial Editor senior Katie Brown. Staff members were responsible for taking photographs, conducting interviews, writing copy, and sales of yearbooks and business ads. The staff truly came together and created a great yearbook. They managed to pull their own loads and help out others. From the start to the finish, the students learned a good deal to take with them to the business world and expanded their creativity like never before.

THE YEARBOOK STAFF

Corey Fitzgerald

"This year's class has been unbelievable. It's amazing what a small group of students can accomplish when they learn to work together and rely upon each other. They've put in a great deal of heart and numerous hours into this book and we hope that shines through."

Rachel Satterwhite

"Everyone on the staff is great; they all work together and I truly appreciate those students who have gone above and beyond. "The Original" came together beautifully; the creativity and thought behind it shows on every page. I am very proud of the 2007-2008 staff."

Ryne Adkins

"It's a fun place to be. Mr. Fitz is just like another one of the guys, but he makes sure we get our stuff done."

Since we were really little, most of us wanted to be in a club. Back then it was usually just a few friends who wanted to say that they were part of a special group of people. Now, as high schoolers, we are in clubs that have more important beliefs than, "GIRLS KEEP OUT." There is a club out there for each one of us. If you're interested in foreign languages, then there are four honor societies for you. If you're a natural born leader, then SCA, DECA, and FBLA are waiting for you to join. If you like to help people, then there are several clubs that reach out to others. Clubs are places where we can go as individuals in order to find a group of people with common beliefs and interests. It's not about separating people by their differences, it's about uniting people through their similarities. There are groups just waiting for people like you, and these pages are here to recognize those people and their accomplishments.

EXPOSED: THE UNDERLYING TRUTH!!

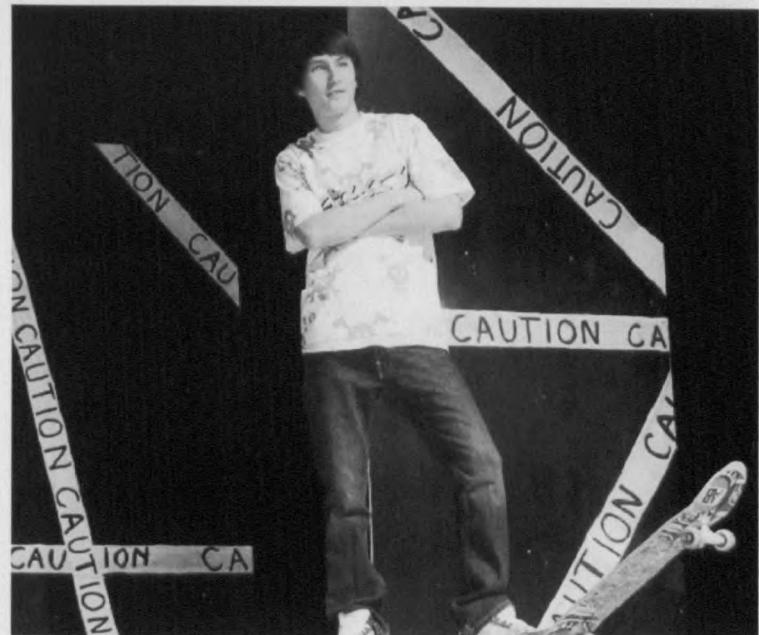

Models in the Fashion Show take a final bow at the end of the show.

The Battlefield High School Fashion Show left the audience in amazement after models revealed the stereotypes of high school in their 2nd annual fashion show, titled "Exposed! An Underlying Truth." This year's show was about breaking the stereotypes of a typical high school. By breaking the typical stereotypes such as skater, prep, gangster, and geek the fashion show showed that you can go beyond your stereotypes and make friends with a entirely new group and still have fun. The directors of the fashion show took time and effort to put the show together, they often stayed after school and came in on weekends to help get the show together. Also, the fashion marketing classes helped out by painting and building the sets used in the actual fashion show. We would like to thank Ms. Smith, Ms. Allen, Ms. Stauffer, and Ms. Graves for putting in their own time and helping the show become a success.

Juniors Brittany Kerxton, Alison Aramayo, and Ashley Goddard show off the latest spring fashions around the hot pep rally bonfire.

ANIME

Anime Club focuses on Japanese animation, popular world wide. Anime is best known for its exaggerated movements and emotions. The Battlefield High School Anime Club meets bi-monthly to discuss, draw and watch anime. Anime like the TV show "Bleach" are known throughout the world and viewed by people of all ages. If you like to draw, this club is the place to be. The club also rotates its leaders giving each member a chance to lead and learn various social skills in the process. If you ask any member about the Anime Club they will tell you it is fun and is a high school experience nobody should miss out on.

BOWLING

Bowling is not just something to do on a Friday night with your friends it is also a professional sport. It is a sport based on technique and precision how hard you can roll the ball does not matter as much as other aspects of bowling. The students involved with the Bowling Club compete with bowling clubs from the other schools to see which school can bowl the best. The Bowling Club is a great way to stay connected and have fun. Bowling is also one of the few sports in which the weather cannot affect the performance of its players. Bowling or "Ten-pins" as some people call it has a long history dating back to ancient Egypt. Bowling is just one of those experiences you have to try at least once.

ONE MUST MAKE OF ONES OWN FINGERS

WELL DRILLED SOLDIERS

Guitars go back hundreds of years, but they have changed dramatically over the years. You can go from acoustic to electric which not only look different but sound completely different. Guitars have also had an impact on the game-life. A game you will find often around the high school students hobbies is Guitar Hero, a fake guitar hooked up to a game system. The club itself is basically a place for guitar playing students to come together, meet new friends, mentor students that are new to guitar and to better themselves on the instrument. During the second meeting of the club, novice students were paired up with more seasoned students. The first 30 minutes of the club dedicates time to helping those new to the guitar. The second 30 minutes is basically open for free guitar play, but many mentors still continue to help out their protégés. The students aimed to have a more organized club this year and decided to limit the club to acoustic or classical guitars only. There has been an electric here and there, but amps are not allowed.

MODEL UN

In Model UN there are many issues and politics. Many of the talks they had were about world events. The team discussed events, although the class never ran out of things to talk about. Talking about issues around the world will never end in this club.

During the 2007-2008 school-year the club was in session every Wednesday. Throughout the time the club was in session there was never a dull moment where they had nothing to talk about. One of the conferences they went to was held at The College William & Mary in Williamsburg, VA.

The Secretary General of the club is senior Nathan Hagan, Under Secretary General is junior Claire Osterman, Director General (Treasurer) is sophomore Kerry Campbell, Under Director General (Secretary) is junior Morghanne Blackmon, and the Historian is senior George Laur. The club's sponsor, Mrs. Maiuri, helped out by making it possible for this club can coming together.

Debate is the process of learning how to present arguments and to argue well about political issues. It is a good preparation for students to develop confidence and the ability to speak in public. Here at Battlefield, English teacher, Mr. Florer is the club director. "These students have performed exceptional this year. They have been excellent representatives of Battlefield High School," said Mr. Florer.

In this club they discuss current events and legislative issues. Debate is a wonderful way to express thoughts and feelings about what is going on in the world.

DECA is primarily a marketing club designed for students wishing to pursue a career in marketing as well as careers in hospitality, finance, sales/service, business administration, and entrepreneurship. It promotes four essential character traits: Leadership Development, Community Service, Skill Assessment, and Academic Skill Development. Battlefield High School's chapter of DECA is run by Mrs. Smith and Ms. Stauffer. DECA sponsors the turkey feathers competition for the most popular teacher in the fall, a coat drive in the winter, and BHS Fashion Show, "Exposed" in the spring. "Exposed" was the second annual fashion show.

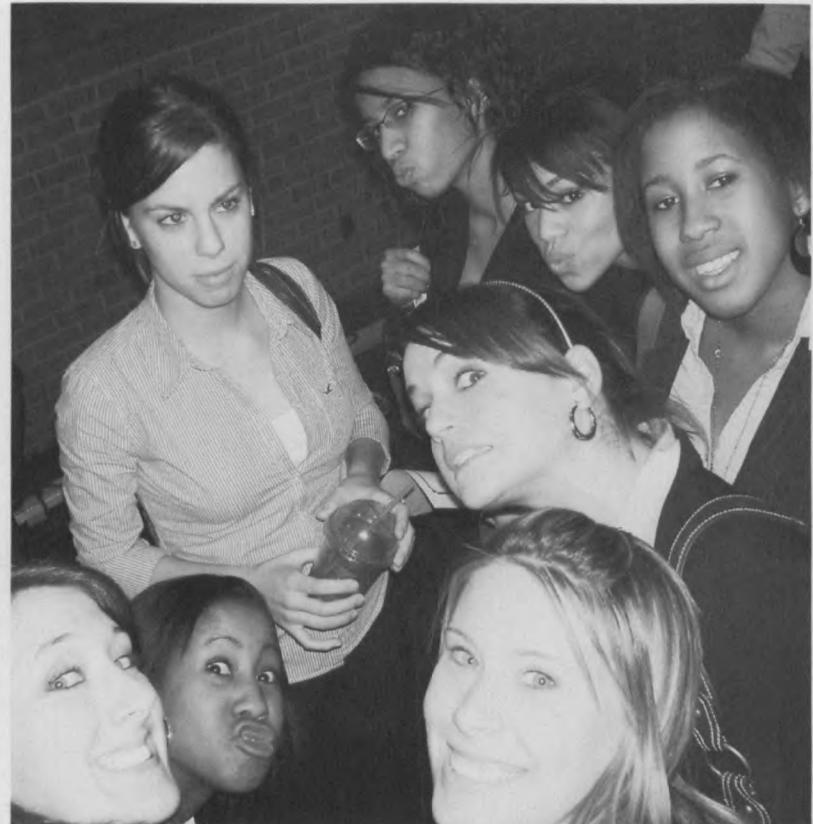

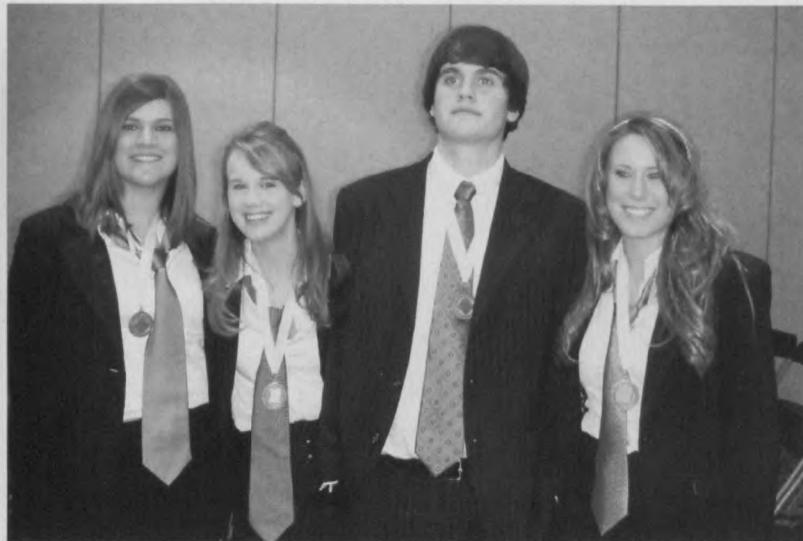

In January, DECA students took a trip to Potomac Mills to compete in different marketing and business role plays at Districts. Battlefield came away with the most awards. During the second weekend in March, several DECA students went down to Norfolk, Virginia for the weekend for the DECA State Competition. The Battlefield students competed excellently and brought home multiple awards. In addition several students including, seniors Jenna Smith, David Gudzowski, and junior Taylor Donelson qualified to go to the National Competition in Atlanta, Georgia at the end of April.

Fashion students involved in DECA also started Style Society. The club met once or twice a month to practice making clothes, create jewelry, and learn about make up as it pertains to fashion.

The lights dimmed and a hush fell over the crowd as the curtains were drawn and the drama department took the stage doing what they do best. Through this form of expression, students were able to make many new friends and discover more about themselves on a daily basis. No matter which path they chose, these aspiring thespians learned more about themselves all the time onstage, behind stage, or behind camera.

Students of Battlefield High School are very diverse and have many different interests, but there is usually one thing that can bring a small group of them together. For this group, it was the passion that they all shared for the theatre. Members of the club devote hours upon hours of their free time to the Drama Club.

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

The FCA is a place where fellow athletes can go to share a common belief and passion in the Christian faith. On Tuesday afternoons and Friday mornings, you may witness a group of teens in thoughtful discussion, or deep in prayer. Whether it's tennis or football, soccer or baseball, FCA accepts all athletes. Although the club is for athletes, you do not have to be in a specific sport in order to join because the FCA is a group that supports all students of ALL religious faiths. President of FCA Lauren Peacock and Vice President Laura Gass do a fantastic job at leading the group. The group has, like everything else in Battlefield, gotten better throughout the past four year and we look forward to more exciting projects and events to come from the FCA.

The Cutting EDGE

EDGE Club...many have seen the posters and flyers around the school hallways, but many don't understand what the group is all about. EDGE is a national organization integrated into high schools. It is a multi-cultural group of Christians who celebrate their faith and help others to find the right path. The members regularly do charity work and community activities to better the area. They also help those who do not have a church to find one that is close by. The group promotes a growth in faith, unity, and concern for others, while doing their best to avoid harmful situations and decisions and encouraging others to do the same.

“God, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference.”

Did you know that one can has the power to let your TV run for three hours? Or know that Americans throw away about 2.5 million plastic bottles every year? Every year we make enough plastic film to shrink wrap Texas.

Environmental Club hasn't been here all four years like every other club, but in the short time it has existed, it has made the most effort in accomplishing their goals. This year, Environmental Club is trying to get Battlefield High School to recycle not only the newspapers students use for Read to Succeed, but also recycle bottles and cans. The club is hoping this year Battlefield will be the first in the county and be a pilot program to show recycling should be apart of every school in Prince William County.

Environmental Club is showing they can do more than just talk about global warming but help prevent it. Every other county around us recycles so why aren't we?

FBLA, the Future Business Leaders of America, helps prepare our students for the rapidly expanding business world. FBLA teaches them basic business practices and how to manage finances in the working world. Everything from ethical financial decisions to successful business management is taught and discussed during FBLA meetings. This experience gives future businessmen and women a head start for when they go into the working world. FBLA also helps to organize school events and charity fundraisers like Operation Turkey and the Faculty Tricycle Race at the pep rally. These events and fundraisers help raise money for the school and charities and bring about community awareness. FBLA also competes at competitions, from local to nationwide. At these events the members are challenged in their knowledge of business and accounting as well as their ability to demonstrate management and leadership skills.

The Hip-Hop and Step Teams have worked very hard this year to be the ultimate best at what they do. Last year, both the Hip-Hop and the Step Team were just beginning to discover their true dancing abilities. Beta Aeta Sigma first performed last year at the Day of the Dead Festival and amazed everyone with their creative beats and the stepping routine that made everyone get up and jam to the beat. This year, they took it to the next level at the Winter Pep Rally. Last year's inspiration was the movie Stomp the Yard.

The Hip Hop team struggled in the beginning in 2004 trying to find a sponsor. When they did, the sponsor that was chosen didn't work out and they were forced to find a new one. Last year, the team finally received the respect that they deserve from their teachers and their peers. Their morale skyrocketed at the Winter Pep Rally when they pulled off one of their best performances yet.

International Club was designed to raise awareness of international events and to raise money for international charities. Battlefield is one of only two chapters in the United States. Meetings consist of guest speakers and discussions on current worldwide events. Suggestions for fundraising are also brought to attention and monthly field trips to different ethnic restaurants are scheduled. This year's main service opportunity was Operation Smile in which money was raised to pay for childhood facial deformity surgery. Money was raised for the International Red Cross through a fundraiser. Other events included raising awareness about World AIDS through announcements and posters, providing holiday gifts for two needy children, and learning about the "Lost Boys" of the Sudan. The club President, Emily Crawford, attends every meeting to direct and gain awareness of the upcoming events which contribute to the club's overall success.

KEY CLUB

The Key Club is an organization of students dedicated to the community. Members include President and senior Morgan Savoia and Vice President and junior Priscilla Son. By participating in various volunteer opportunities, they are enriching their lives as well as the lives of the people they help. This year the Key Club really showed what they can do by participating in many projects. Some examples of their volunteer work include gift wrapping at Potomac Mills to help families without health insurance and a sponsored hat day at Battlefield where all proceeds went to help children with cancer. "Key Club is fun because you get to get out in the community and meet new people. The best part this year was Merry Messengers because we got to interact with other kids at school while helping a great cause," said junior Meridith Price.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

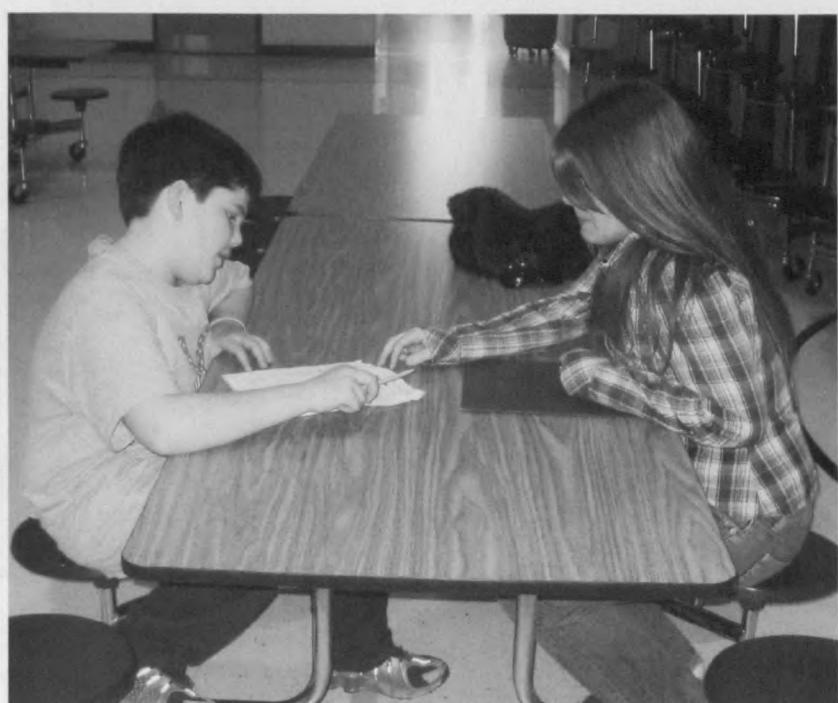

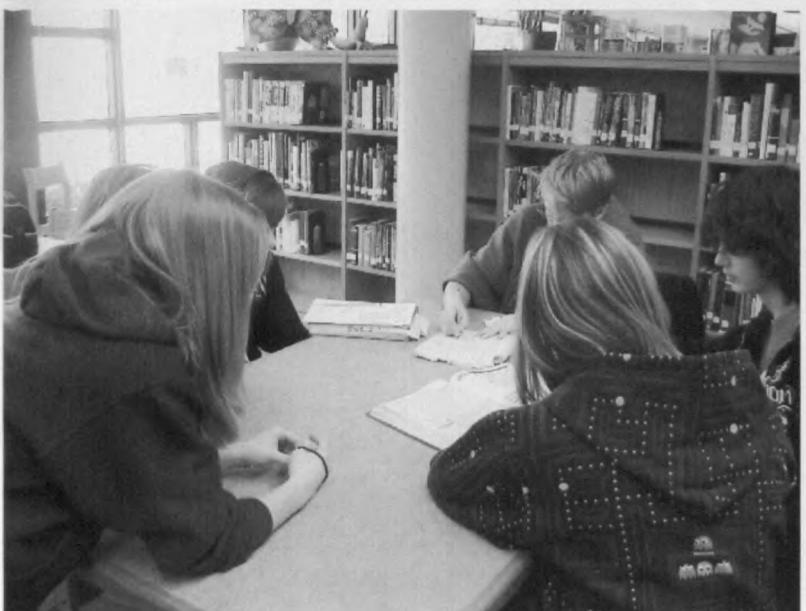

Members of National Honor Society are selected for their achievements in academics, leadership, character, and community service. This year NHS inducted 68 new members making the combined total of juniors and seniors 140. NHS is involved in various after school activities, such as tutoring in the library, the blood drive, the mentor/mentee program at Alvey Elementary School, and tutoring at Buckland Mills and Mountain View Elementary Schools. They also helped out soldiers in Iraq this winter by donating items to the Shoe Boxes for Soldiers drive. Because of the large number of items donated, the society was able to sponsor two platoons. The items were shipped over and the soldiers received them around Christmas time, a great reminder of the home they are protecting and the people who appreciate them.

The NHS also helped to organize the Blood Drive. This gave Battlefield students an opportunity to come together and help others. This year, six NHS members volunteered at Alvey Elementary School to mentor forth and fifth grade students. Through fun activities, NHS members and Alvey students alike learned trust, communication, and teamwork. They also learned what works and what doesn't when it comes to studying and getting homework done. NHS is a great way for students to get involved in their community and rewarded for their hard work in school at the same time. Every year the society grows and next year will be no different.

National Honor Society

FRENCH STYLE

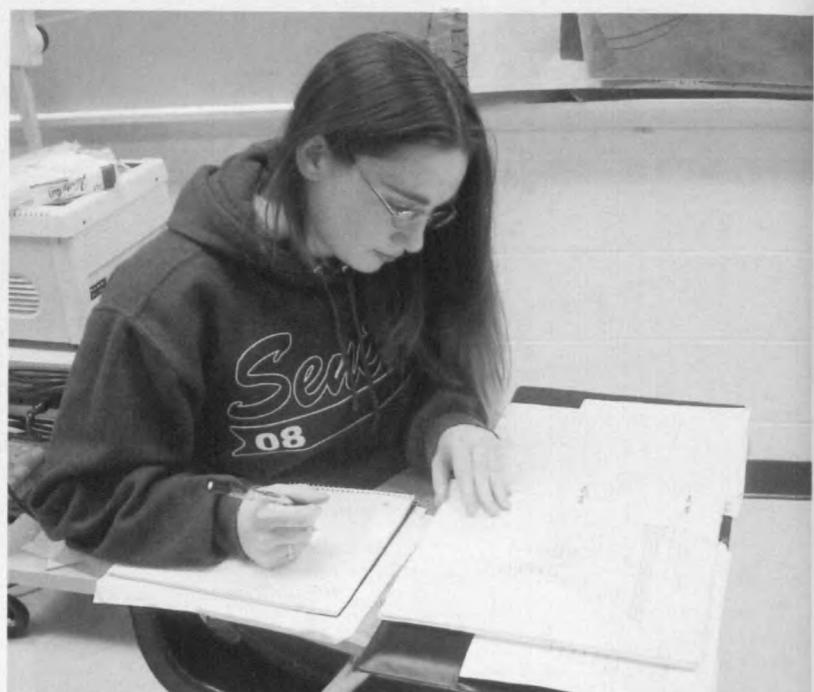

The Battlefield High School chapter of the National French Honor Society is not just another ordinary club. Only those who master their grammaire (grammar), their virelangues (tongue-twisters) and their dictees (dictations) with nothing lower than a 3.5 average are invited to be part of such a prestigious group. Since the opening of the school, the French Honor Society has done nothing but grow, with more and more students becoming eligible to be inducted at a special ceremony.

Even so, the bond that these students have created goes far beyond the study of the beautiful language that is French. As president of the Society senior Sydney Taylor puts it, "The French Honor Society is like a small family."

This year, the French Honor Society focused mainly on tutoring students from the lower French levels. Also, the Society was finally able to enjoy their revenue from past years by going out to dinner at The Melting Pot and spending time together.

NATIONAL LATIN HONOR SOCIETY

The Latin language has been around for centuries and is still present today. Not only can it be seen in the English language, but in other languages such as Spanish and French. Many students at Battlefield take Latin but only some study the language long enough to be apart of the National Latin Honor Society (NLHS). The qualifications include maintaining an 'A' average in Latin, at least a 3.5 GPA for all classes, and being enrolled in Latin III or higher. NLHS has been around for years and has been here at Battlefield since the beginning. The Battlefield chapter of NLHS started out with just one member and currently includes five. This years members are, seniors Katie Brown, Ju Yeon Ha, Laura Johnson, Mike Mast, and junior Paul Koo. Though the society is rather small, each year it grows. Battlefield can look forward to a society of hard working individuals who will do many interesting things in NLHS and beyond.

This year we have five current members and nine new members will be inducted. The members tutor lower level students as well as run and organize NLHS activities and Latin club activities."

The Science National Honor Society has four objectives that they always rely on, 1. Encouraging & recognizing scientific & intellectual thought, 2. Advancing students knowledge of classical & modern science, 3. Communicating with the scientific community and the last one is, 4. Sharing comprehension of science with the community. They always accomplish these goals every time they come together as a team.

This year the Science National Honor Society set up a CSI day for middle school children. They had four different rooms. Each room had a different CSI objective to solve, blood splatter, fingerprinting, and a mock crime scene. In fingerprinting they had to figure out what their own finger prints looked like along with a few other people that were there. In the crime scene area they had to find clues of the objects they found on the ground. All the kids that came seemed to enjoy what the SNHS put on for them.

Hablas español?

The National Spanish Honor Society 2007-2008, was a great success. Returned students and new students made this club one of the most encouraging. This club is all about getting together and learning some Spanish! They help with tutoring kids in need for some extra help in Spanish. They also give back to the community by picking up trash in our school. Imagine a great school without these guys? Who else would help you to learn a language completely foreign to you? Ms. Byers, the sponsor of the National Spanish Honor Society, has done a great job hosting meetings every month so the big group can get together and discuss what needs to be done and who needs to be helped. In this way, no struggling student goes untutored. The students in this society are top notch. They have to have a GPA higher than 3.5 to get into and stay in this club. They also have to earn points by volunteering to help others. This requires tutoring, attending meetings, etc.

The National Spanish Honor Society is truly an honor to be in.

The Peer Diversity Group is a world wide organization made to train members on anti-biased education and diversity training. The group helps all BHS students recognize bias and the harm it inflicts on individuals and society, explore the value of diversity, improve inter-group relations, and combat racism, anti-Semitism and all forms of prejudice and bigotry. The premier aspect of this club are the safe harbor meetings, which are held every Tuesday and are known for its discrimination-free environment. The Peer Diversity Group has been with BHS all four years. We hope it will stay with us for a long time.

"I've always wanted to be different and become a person that would make a great impact on this world. Well, being different wasn't too difficult. Why? Well, if you haven't noticed, look at me, let my eyes explain. From the election results of last year to this year's progress of the Senior Class of 2008 has been quiet a journey and still, more to come.

Last year, in hope to lead the class of 2008 to a higher level, I ran for president. As we all know, our class is the first four-year graduating class of Battlefield and is and will continue to be recognized as the most gifted class of Battlefield. And when the results came in, I realized that not only am I a member of that class but also the president. I knew that there were many expectations that I had to satisfy.

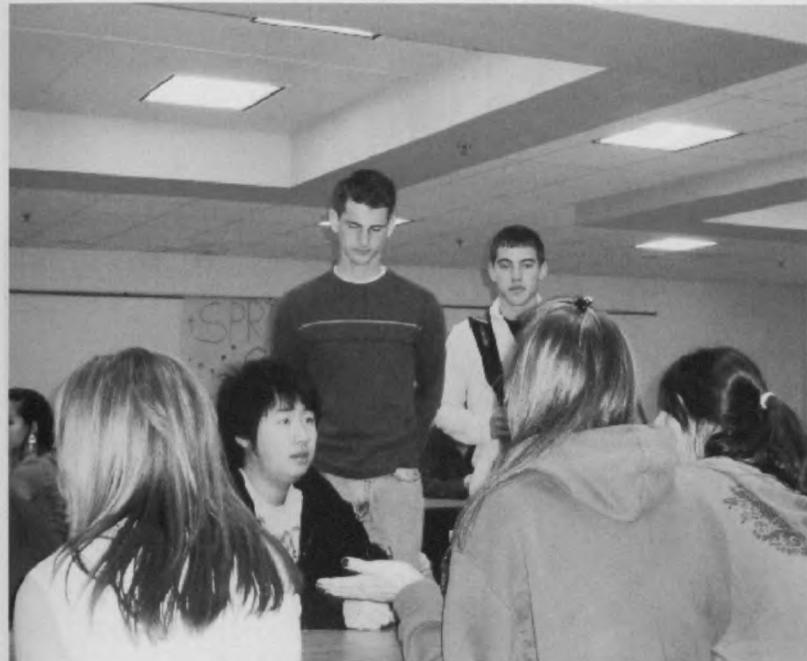

As the year started in September, despite all the pressures, and the war trying to keep up with both the Marching Band and the senior class expectations, I was able to pull through. Now, it is only the end the first semester with two more quarters to go. I hope that as you guys read this article at the end of the year, I would have become that person who made a great impact on the Battlefield Class of 2008.

As the president, I learned to be an independent, initiative person while becoming more open to people around me. Now I possess a widened perspective and am able to bridge two cultures to combine the best of both worlds, move easily from one to another and have the capacity to reach out and bring people together for the common good. For our future, I would like to end with this quotation (to the right)..."

The Student Council Association is one of the most important groups involved in every school. They host all of the Homecoming dances, pep rallys, and various spirit events. Battlefield's SCA works very hard to create fun and entertaining activities for the entire school to come together as one.

The 2007-2008 Homecoming Dance was a huge success, with "City Lights" as the theme. The dance was completely different from last year and had a major turn-out. One new addition to this year's event list is the monthly spirit day. Each class was assigned a specific theme. Students and teachers were both really excited to come to school that specific Friday to engage in friendly and healthy competition. The SCA also created competition in our first annual charity event against Stonewall Jackson High School. Students were encouraged to purchase school colored ribbons, and the school with the most profit was able to hang a banner at the losing opponents school. Even though Battlefield lost, we were able to raise $2200 for Saint Jude's Children's Hospital. Members of the SCA traveled with the Leadership Class to the Gainesville Health and Rehab Center to visit with the elderly. They played various games with them, with one of the favorites being Bingo. The participants of the game won gift baskets filled with goodies such as candles and holiday candy. Overall, the SCA has accomplished many of the goals that they set for the 2007-2008 school year.

Sports

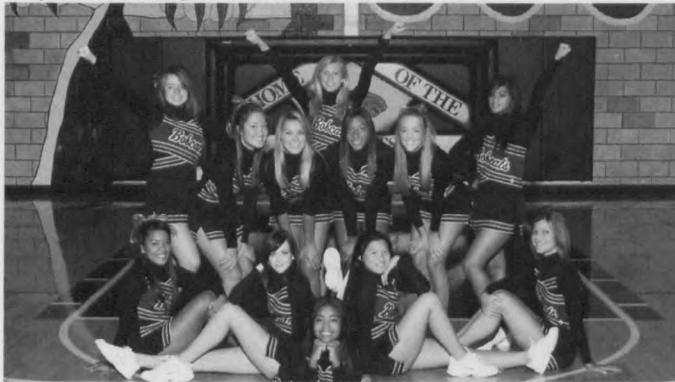

For as long as any of us can remember, sports have been a huge part of society. Whether we play sports or not, none of us can deny that sports are huge, especially at high school. Some do it for the adrenaline that pumps through their body after delivering a bone-crushing hit in front of the whole school. Others may play because they love to hear the sweet sound of metal hitting a ball. And still others do it to feel the wind against their face while on the track. Whatever the reason is, all athletes are united together through their common passion for the sport and their support for each other. Whether it is after the complete destruction of the other team or after a crippling loss, we all stick together as one group and push through it. After the fourth and best year of sports, we have made it perfectly clear that Battlefield Sports will be recognized and respected by all who oppose us.

My Favorite Things About Cheerleading

Freshman Talyor Hardy said, "My favorite thing about cheerleading was meeting new people and I loved the challenges."

Sophomore, Lindsay Hunter said, "My favorite thing about cheerleading is being with my friends."

Cheer, Bobcats, CHEER!

As the school year started the JV and Freshmen Cheerleading squads flourished into teams with endless possibilities. The JV and Freshmen girls look up to the Varsity Cheerleading squad for advice. Even in the shadow of the Varsity Cheerleaders, the Junior Varsity and Freshmen Cheerleaders shine. Cheering at the JV and Freshmen football games, these girls get the spirit flowing throughout the stands.

Despite the inexperience of some of the newer cheerleaders, the more experienced ones led the way and helped the younger ones learn all the routines and cheers. As with any team, there were times when the cheerleaders were discouraged. But the positive attitude of the coaches and captains helped get them through the tough times and encouraged them to keep cheering, both at the games and at competitions. These were the times that the girls will remember best, spending time with their friends and learning some new skills.

Their amazing cheers and great attitude were the product of months of strenuous training and instruction. And without the helpful attitude of the veteran cheerleaders and coaches, the newer cheerleaders would have had a difficult time finding out how to do all the routines correctly. Through good times and bad times they stuck together and were able to perform remarkably and have an amazing and fun season.

The fourth year of Battlefield cheerleading was great. At camp this summer the varsity girls received "Excellent" and "Superior" ribbons after much evaluation by the judges at the camp. The entire varsity team was nominated, which has never happened before. On varsity, seniors Jessica Goings, Lauren Butler, Casey Munson and Nenna Onwaka, and sophomores Katie Surface and Genevive Johnson were awarded NCA All-American titles. Lauren Butler received the highest score, making her the NCAA top all American, and won the Top Gun jump competition. Casey Munson also won the leadership award.

On October 10th, the varsity squad went to the All-County Competition at Woodbridge High School. At this competition the varsity team went up against 13 teams, including last year's number one team, Osbourn. Districts were October 17th at Culpeper High School. Battlefield received 3rd place at this competition. On November 3rd, the varsity team competed at Regionals. At the regional competition the varsity team placed 4th out of the 16 teams there. This spot secured them a spot at the state competition on November 9th. We are looking forward to seeing the Varsity Cheerleaders go on to win bigger and better trophies.

Facing the Pain in CROSS COUNTRY

Cross country is one of the most intense high school sports. In cross country, the word "endurance" takes on two meanings. One referring to endure the long mileage. The other meaning pertaining to putting up with the burning pain in muscles, contracting lungs, and fighting through injuries. Junior Elanie Travers a new runner to the Cross Country team at Battlefield during the 2007 season said, "Endurance is important when it comes to cross country for the motions of the muscles are never ending." As most seasons go, it had its highs and lows; with a combination of personal records, team wins, and injuries. Junior Katie Goode remarked after the epic season that, "Cross country and I have a love-hate relationship. I love running trails on long distance runs, but I hate when it hurts. It is a constant balance between serenity and pain."

Four years ago, the cross country team barely had more than a dozen athletes and most were freshmen. Despite the odds, the boys came out strong and the girls managed to win the District title. This year's team proved to be strong at their multiple weekday meets and weekend invitationals. Several times the best overall performances were when the varsity runners stuck together, taking turns setting pace.

On a wet rainy day at Districts the boys won and the girls came in third. A week later at Regionals, the boys placed 6th and the girls placed 5th, nearly going onto to states.

Junior Varsity

FIELD HOCKEY

This season was the second season Battlefield had a Junior Varsity Field Hockey team, and they had an outstanding season. The team ended with a record of 6-1-5. Many of them have never even played field hockey. "My first year of field hockey was fun and exciting. I got to meet a lot of new people, and I learned new things. I will play field hockey again next year," stated freshman Yenis Guevara.

Mrs. Byrd, history teacher, coached the girls throughout the season. When asked how she felt about coaching the team, Mrs. Byrd said, "Field hockey is a unique sport, most of the girls on the JV team came to try-outs with no previous knowledge of the game. This team is an exceptional group of girls. Both Varsity and JV, treated each other with mutual respect and encouragement. I can truthfully say it is an honor to be a part of this program." The team is lead by its captains, junior Mariela Alvarez and sophomore Addie Gaegler. "Being captain was a lot harder than I thought it would be, but having a great team to support me made it entirely worth it. I couldn't have pictured a more perfect season in the end, but more importantly I couldn't picture a more perfect group of girls," said Mariela Alvarez. "I learned more responsibility, how to handle situations better, how to be a leader, how to take care of problems, to try even harder, and to never give up," stated Addie Gaegler.

FIELD HOCKEY

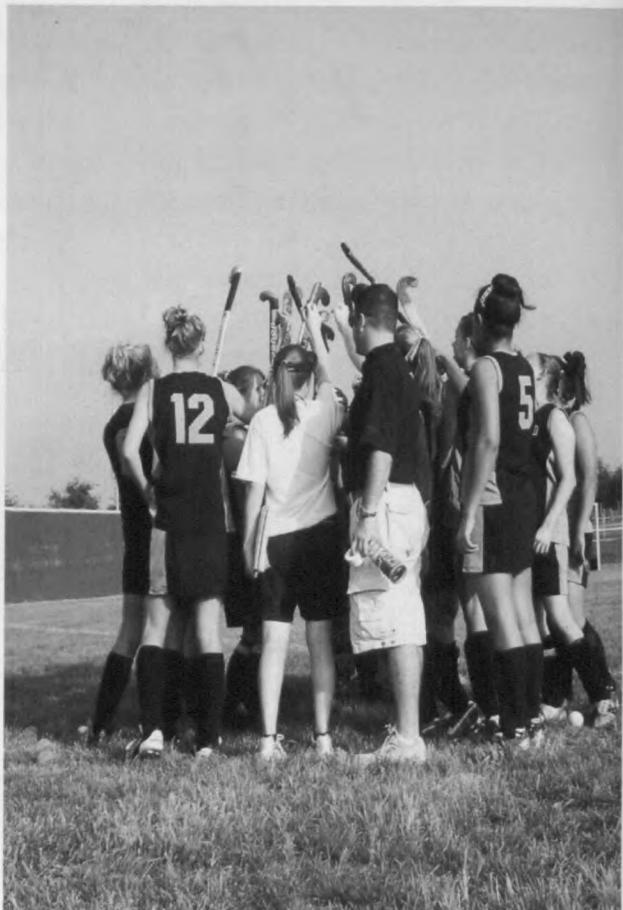

This year the Varsity Field Hockey Team ended the season with a record of 9-4-1. The team improved so much from the first year where they didn't score a goal all season. This year the team was coached by Mrs. Webb and Mr. Kilgore. Coach Webb and Kilgore were asked how they felt about the experience of coaching field hockey because it was their first year. Coach Webb stated, "Although this was my first year coaching field hockey, it was a very successful and fun year. This team of young women have a lot of heart and truly care for each other which makes coaching so much more enjoyable. I had a great time working with these girls and I am very proud of them and their accomplishments this season."

Coach Kilgore said, "I found a lot of similarities between lacrosse and field hockey and a lot of differences. However, the overall experience has been a positive one and I always look forward to the comradely between the girls."

Seniors Anna Bruno, Chanel Figueroa, and Catie Gaegler have been on the team since the school opened in Fall 2004-2005. When the seniors were asked how the team has changed since their freshman year, Captain Anna Bruno said, "They're my family. We've all learned that we can rely on one another in everything, not just hockey." Catie Gaegler said, "We've gotten a lot closer as friends, and everyone's skills have improved a lot in the last few years."

Stay Focused

The Making of Champions: FRESHMEN FOOTBALL

This year the freshmen have learned that high school football is no walk in the park. Many are first timers and after the first game learned that in order to play high school football you have to be able to take a hard hit. They have had to adjust quickly to a harsher routine in high school and learned that they need to find their place on the team, field, and in the rankings.

It is the determination they have now and the skills they develop over the season that will help them advance to the higher teams in their upcoming years of high school. They had to learn to work together and become a team.

Freshmen Ryan James, Cory Shumaker, and Ty Trobridge said that the hardest adjustment for them to make was having to step up and not goof around. Freshman Cory Shumaker said, "The best thing about football is that you get to hit people." All three of them were in agreement that they play football because it is fun, it gets you in shape, and they learn how to play as a team. Their hard work and faith in each other helped payoff in a winning season for the young Bobcats.

The Rise of the

JV BOBCATS

In 2004, the JV Football Team began its season with an 0-3 start. Their fourth game against Stonewall Jackson was what gave them the confidence to keep winning the rest of their games. A few top senior offensive players were Erik Patterson and Corey Thacker. A few top defensive players were seniors JJ Thompson and Austin Tuell. The team ended their season with a 7-3 record. This was only the beginning.

In 2005, the team was getting better and better as talented newcomers joined. It was all about the freshmen as the season went on. The game against Osbourn was the hardest game for them, but they still finished the season with a 5-3 record. The biggest theme for the team that year was team bonding.

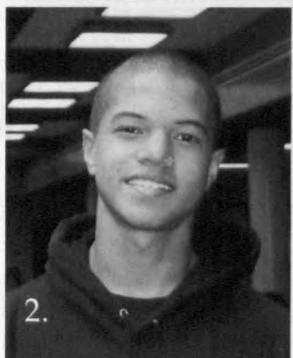

2006 was another phenomenal year for JV Football Team. Sophomore running back Gerald Khosa stood out and made the Bobcats look sharp all year. Sophomores Korbin Doss and John White shared the quarterback position and successfully completed what they needed to do. The JV team ended their season with a 7-1 record.

This year the team lost the first two games of the season, then suddenly came back with a vengeance and killed in the last 6 games, almost like the 2004 JV Football Team. History certainly does repeat itself. Sophomore, wide receiver Adam Clements said that catching touchdown passes was one of his favorite tasks as a wide receiver. He also said, "If you want to excell at something, you need to work hard at it." And that is what the JV team definitely did this season. The team improved their game throughout the season by learning teamwork. The players also learned how to communicate with each other to execute their plays. Discipline came into the picture when one of the players or more would miss a pass and the coaches would make them run laps. Everything that they learned throughout the year was shown on the field.

Quarterback Spotlight

Senior Corey Thacker was the quarterback for the first half of the 2007 season. He was unable to finish out the fall season due to a severe shoulder injury. Teammates, fans and the student body were very supportive of Corey and his season accomplishments.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The boys of the Varsity Football Team proved to their fans that they had the compassion and endurance to have a successful season. Sophomore Danny Drazal said, "Coach Cox is a very motivational coach who encourages us to work together as a team." This football season was a historic one for the Bobcats. Never had the team won nine regular season games in a row. Coach Cox said, "I don't think the players realize how great of a job they've done this season, and they won't know until the season is over."

The defense and offense worked extremely hard at practice which paid off during the games. Each player contributed greatly in the overall success of the team.

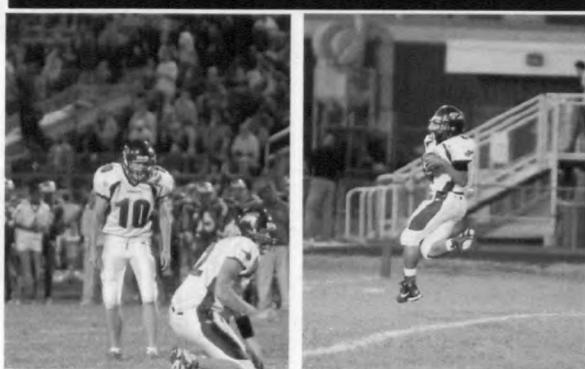

The Bobcat Football Team was constantly in the news this season. The Battlefield vs. Stonewall game was featured as Fox 5's Game of the Week, and was videotaped to air on the evening news. "It was so awesome having a major news channel come to videotape us playing! We all felt really important," said junior Adrian Ingram.

The boys finished out the season with a record of 9-1, and landed a spot in the Regional Championship. The regional game was vs. the Woodbridge Vikings. The team had never made it this far in the history of football at Battlefield. Despite the loss, the Bobcats gained the respect that they deserved and set the bar for years to come.

GOLF

Rarely does anyone ever hear about the school's golf team, but the Battlefield team happens to be one of the most successful teams at the school. At the Cedar Run District Championship on September 24th, Battlefield took first place. Golfers that brought home the title included; freshman Andrew Lister, sophomore Blake Frost, juniors Pierce Bishop, Jordan Pastor, and Justin Riley, and senior Eric Paris.

The team then took home fifth place in Regionals. We can't forget about the girls though. Senior Jessica Lawrenson and sophomore Raine Petrella qualified for the Girls State Open Tournament. "We have a very young team and a successful season this year. The future looks like a hole in one for us," said Coach Tillman. Way to go Bobcats!

Playing with Passion

MARCHING BAND

In 2004, The Marching Band consisted of 41 individuals, dedicated to only one goal: to become a Virginia Honor Band. With the majority of the band being rookies, the task itself was daunting. But if it's one thing that director Mr. Brodt is not afraid of, it is a challenge.

The band went on to accomplish their goal, receiving a superior at State Marching Festival, as well as Concert Festival.

Four years later, the marching band has over 100 members, but their goal has not changed: to remain an honor band, and be the best they can be.

This season proved challenging, high level music, and complicated drill routine promised obstacles even for upperclassmen.

But the band persevered winning Grand Champion at both the Hylton and Stafford competitions, as well as placing in every other competition. They again received a superior rating at Virginia State Marching Festival.

The Marching Bobcats traveled to New Orleans in January to play at the halftime show during the 2008 Sugar Bowl. Lasting memories were made, "It was a great way to end our senior season," one member recalls.

The Marching Band has accomplished a lot during four short years. Earning Virginia Honor Band was their greatest accomplishment, but many more stand out in memory of an amazing four years.

"We've accomplished a lot in four years, you Mr. and Mrs. Brodt, thank you band my life, as well as for many others. We will always remember that." - Senior Kelly Jo

Lady Bobcats JV AND FRESHMEN VOLLEYBALL

New to the high school atmosphere, the most recent additions to the Lady Bobcats left everything on the court as they pushed and fought their way through their first high school season. The freshmen squad had a great season as well as a great time finishing the season with a record of 11-5, a great ending to an even better season. After three previous years of amazing volleyball, the Freshmen Cats lived up to the Lady Bobcats' expectations.

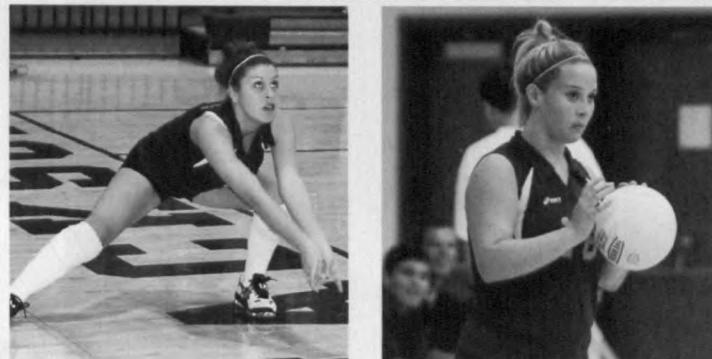

The Junior Varsity team came out ready to fight as they claimed a seven game win streak before their unfortunate first loss to Loudoun Valley. However, the ladies didn't let that ruin their season. They overpowered all but four teams and ended with an impressive 14-4 record! "We had a very strong team. Whether we won or lost, we always had fun," sophomore Kayla Fowler commented. The girls should be proud of their constant teamwork that forced them into greatness.

Pump, Pump,

PUMP IT UP

You might not know this, but volleyball has been an original sport since the 1900s, and did you know that it used to be called "mintonette." Since then it has grown into a world-wide sport and in 1964 it was officially included in the Summer Olympic Games.

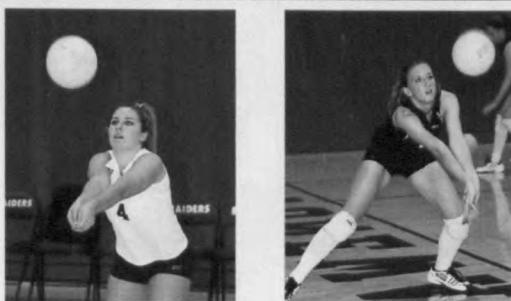

Likewise, as volleyball grew to be a world-wide sport, the team here at Battlefield has grown. Coach Lem has been leading the Varsity ladies since the school opened in 2004. He has supported them in any way to help them reach their full potential. This years' seniors, Christine Mihelsic, Lisa Costello, Lindsey Caudle, and Marianne Mannix have been involved in the sport since the beginning (starting out either on Freshman, Junior Varsity, or Varsity). "We have made huge improvements since freshman year, becoming better players and a closer family," said Lindsey.

The varsity ladies conquered the court making this one of the best years ever with a total of 11 wins and finishing the season competing in the Cedar Run District Tournament. Senior Devon Kesner, who has managed the team since freshman year said, "The program has improved a lot and during the season I always feel like we've grown to be sisters."

In addition, junior Lesley Chambers made All-District, and senior Christine Mihelcic and sophomore Mikaela Whitaker made Honorable Mention for Cedar Run Districts. Congratulations ladies!

1 BALL, 2 TEAMS, 10 GUYS

With every sport comes a particular skill that must be mastered. Basketball is a sport that takes a lot of endurance, being dedicated, and having skills. The JV Bobcats came together as a team to take home the wins that they deserved this season. The Bobcat team's comfort with one another helped them communicate on the court to find open players and to master their plays.

All the boys played well and though the season has ended, they will keep their memories forever. With few hard defeats, there were many exciting victories! The JV team proved themselves this year and had an amazing season!

The Freshman team is the future team of Battlefield. They are a very close and bonded team because many of them played freshman football together. Many of them just carried their friendships over to basketball and that has really helped their successful season this year. They all really know how to play like a family.

All the players had positive things to say about the season. Chris Wendle said "This year everyone on the team had chemistry and we all had fun." David Risoldi said "We went out there everyday, worked hard, and won. What say? We do work."

Sophomore Michael Mowery said, "I enjoyed playing on the JV team this year, I had fun and learned a lot."

The freshman team ended their season very well and came in first place for the district. Their final record was 15-3. The J.V. boys had a successful season and had a record of 15-7.

Above the rim, top of the key, nothing but net, let it rain, rain, rain. The boys varsity basketball team was bad weather (in a good way) raining threes and clouding opponents with hands in faces and blocks on blocks. Inspired in their fourth year, seniors Tyler Bent, Shunn Simkins and Bryant Osei portrayed the most admirable of leadership traits both on and off the court. The team, as a whole, set the standard for teamwork and sportsmanship and served as promise for future professionals to act as positive role models. Basketball is not just a sport to these young athletes, it is a dream wanting to be fulfilled in their future. Growing up playing around the community court and going to Freedom Center to work on their skills, Basketball has been a part of their lives starting from a very young age. Between weekly practices and weekend games the team played astonishingly together. Winning was paramount under the boards and in the classroom and the final record glimmered with promise of post-season victories for years to come. "I never looked at the consequences of missing a big shot...when you think about the consequences you always think of a negative result." This was one of the many famous quotes from the greatest basketball player of all time.

IN THE GAME!

This year both Freshmen and Junior Varsity Women's Basketball teams ended with a good season. Both Freshmen and JV teams really had the support from their families, peers, and bobcat supporters.

The Freshmen team fought a hard season and ended up showing that in their overall season record the Lady Bobcats ended with a record of 6 - 2. Even though this was the first season the girls had played together, they had a great season. Along with field hockey, girls' lacrosse, earth science, and astronomy, teacher Mr. Kilgore coaches the Freshmen Girls' team. Freshman Carly Pierson stated, "Being a part of a school team and representing Battlefield is a really fun experience, especially as a freshman because it gives you a sense of belonging."

The Junior Varsity team plowed through the season with an unbelievable record of 16 - 3, which is an amazing accomplishment. The team really showed their bobcat fans how well they could play in all of their games because of everyone's encouragement. Coach Almond and Coach Windsor helped out with such a great season. When asked if the JV girls played their best, sophomore Erin Rooney said, "Yes, we played well as a team but there is always room for improvement."

Lady Bobcats...

Still Roaring

When the Lady Bobcats made their mark on the court back in 2004, other schools did not know what to expect and they did not know how to react to the new league member. Coach McCaslin said that he was very proud of the girls at the end of the season and was happy that they pulled together as a team to accomplish the goals they needed to accomplish. They ended their rookie season 1-9.

The "Take Two" year was five times better than the "Break Through" year. Juniors, Danielle Crabtree and Selina Mann, proved themselves as leaders that year and lead their team to a better year. The team ended their season with a 4-6 record.

The following year, the lady Bobcats stepped up their game once again for their "Lyrical" year. Coach Davis commented last year that, "This was our most successful season." The team placed 3rd in the district against some of the best teams. The Lady Bobcats ended their "Lyrical" season with a 6-6 record.

This year, the Lady Bobcats have improved drastically over the past three years. They had a very impressive season, with more wins than losses.

The bond that these girls have has been forming over the years that they have played together, and it definitely showed through their teamwork on the court.

GYMNASTICS

Between vaulting through the air, balancing on the beam, and flipping across mats, the Gymnastics Team worked toward victory this season. Everyday after school the girls spent hours practicing and perfecting their skills on the floor, vault, balance beam, or other skills such as flexibility. These skills, once properly honed, allowed them to better compete at events across the county.

Agility, flexibility, and strength are three of the major attributes needed for a successful gymnast. Fortunately the girls on the Battlefield Gymnastics Team exhibited these skills and on top of exceptional team work helped them to become a successful team this year.

Being a gymnastics team with no seniors and mostly freshmen, the girls look forward to seeing each other in years to come. This also means that they did not have the experience that seniors would. This handicap did not hinder them, instead the juniors provided much needed guidance to the freshmen and helped them to better their skills and routines. Skills like these were further reinforced by repetitive practice and encouragement from Mrs. White.

"They are a good young hard working team and I was glad to coach them this year."

INDOOR TRACK

Indoor track is the one sport the weather can not stop and the athletes are just as unstoppable. Rain, snow, cold, warm they run through it all. The difference between Indoor Track & Field and Outdoor Track & Field are different race distances, outdoor season has more field events, and during indoor season all the important meets are held indoors. Indoor track can be grueling, demanding an athlete with a strong endurance and a drive to never quit.

The original team was coached by Coach Mobley and Coach Huddle. That year the team had less than a dozen girls and only about thirty guys. Now the coaching staff has expanded to Coach Mobley Head Coach & Distance, Coach Morris Jumps, Coach Hannett Hurdles, and Coach Michaelis Sprints. The girls team consisted of about forty girls and fifty boys. Both the girls and boys have proven themselves over and over again at each meet. By the end of the season, every athlete achieved personal records, some set school records, and a few set district records.

"No one can say, 'You must not run faster than this, or jump higher than that.' The human spirit is indomitable."

For Love of the Water SWIM TEAM

It's eight o' clock on a Friday night, most high schoolers would be out to eat, at the movies, or hanging out with friends, but not for the Battlefield Swim Team. Friday night meant exciting, competitive meets at the pool, often lasting late into the night.

Swimmers come to the meet decked out in spirit wear, bellies full of pasta, and high spirits. Their screams echo throughout the pool as the captains lead the team in their traditional chants and cheers. Coach Karri gives a signature pep-talk, drawing more yells from the athletes. Last, but certainly not least, is the trademark yell of "Battlecats". The swimmers are ready, and the meet is underway.

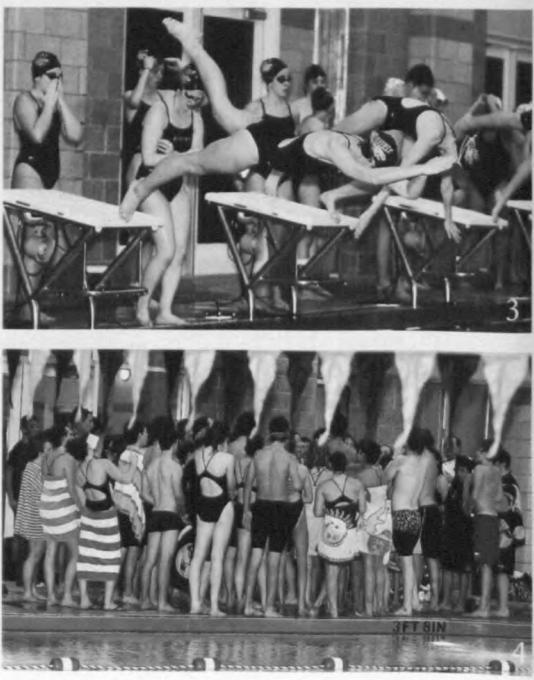

Arguably, the 2007-2008 team was the best in Battlefield's short history. The team consisted of 36 boys and 36 girls, ready to go.

The season was a success from the start, records were broken, and the Bobcats left a trail of wins. In Districts both the girls and boys team captured third place. The boys continues onto Regionals were they also came in third place.

Seniors Bobby Duggleby, Andrew Martin, and EJ Tremols, juniors Justin Bogle and Kenny Heidel, sophomore Nick Tremols, and freshman Kevin Lee all went on to states to represent the Bobcats in the 2008 AAA Virginia Swimming Competition.

Pasta parties, water polo, and late-night meets and practices, will always be the marks of yet another great season for the swim team.

State Champion

Beau Martion learns that he has become Battlefield's first State Champion.

The Sport of a Champion...

WRESTLING

Wrestling requires both mental and physical strength. The mental side of wrestling is maintaining weight in order to stay in a specific weight class. The physical side is being able to beat the guy across the mat. Battlefield was very successful in their fourth year of wrestling. From home to away matches and all the way to states, the athletes shined. Junior Beau Martino brought home a huge win for the team when he was titled State Champion. He is the first State Champion for Battlefield. In addition to his accomplishments, senior Allen Fary placed seventh at States. The wrestlers could not have accomplished as much as they did this year without the help of Coach O'Neill. "The team showed great accomplishments this year. They worked extremely hard and it all paid off in the end."

JV BASEBALL IT ALL STARTS HERE

This year the JV Baseball Team had, "The best group of guys since the program has started." After working hard in the weight room all year, aspiring freshmen and returning sophomores tried out and sixteen talented young men were chosen for the team. "We have a lot of talent this year," said sophomore left fielder Jamie Robinson, "We just need to come together and tear it up when we get on the field." The season started off a little rough, but after several games, the team began to come together and play as a team. With domination on the mound by pitchers John-Austin Shepard and Chris Wendle, and excellent fielding by Jake Conway and John Williams, the team could have been unstoppable. However, as with every team, there were errors and mental mistakes that cost them some games. But the team learned from each mistake and got better and better as the season progressed. "Errors happen in baseball," stated freshman second-baseman Kenta Dooley, "you just have to focus on the next play." After every win, the team tried to make it out to Fosters Grille for a burger or some wings to celebrate a well-earned victory. It is obvious by the actions and attitude of this JV team that we can expect great things from a future varsity squad.

Quotations from the Players

Left - Sophomore Matt Sprague: "The worst part of the season for me was when I couldn't play for a few games after I got a concussion...that really sucked."

Right - Freshman Drew McKenna: "It's the same game as it was at Bull Run, just a lot faster and a lot more competitive."

“Its ninety percent mental, and the rest is physical.”

THE HOMERUN

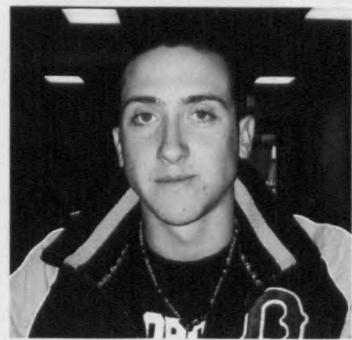

Coach Carroll giving compliments to junior Korbin Doss for a job well done.

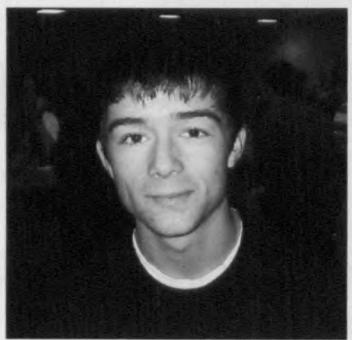

The first baseball team to go through the process all four years here at Battlefield High School played to their fullest extent. Eager to get the season started, try outs were very intense playing their hardest trying to get dibs on short-stop and first base etc. Seeing as the sport is nothing but a passion to many, many students, nothing could be done to help their chances besides playing best to their ability. No matter how hard they tried they all still worried about the fifteen spots left at the end of the week. Starting as freshmen, ending as seniors, the players of the Varsity Baseball team tried their very best this year to gain a scholarship in a university for their hard work in baseball. Pushing them along the way, Coach Caudle was their leader.

To hold the team together, seniors Matt Crouse and Evan Scott, juniors Graydon Claflin and Joey Elbisi were titled captains at the beginning of the season. Through all different types of weather the team still played to their fullest at their games and long practices. The season went by fast for the soon to be graduating class of 2008. None of the seniors wanted it to end. The season was very successful some lost some won but no matter what the score was the team was proud to know they united and played as one. Spring Break also was an event to remember for the team. Ft. Lauderdale, Florida as the destination the team played significantly well at the Westminster Academy Baseball Complex for the Sunshine Baseball Classic.

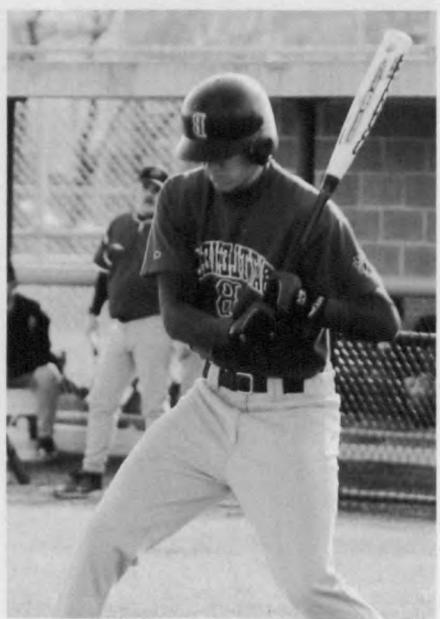

What do you love best about your team?

Evan Scott responded saying, "Conversations with Jason Schortemeyer a.k.a. Sharktooth is my favorite part."

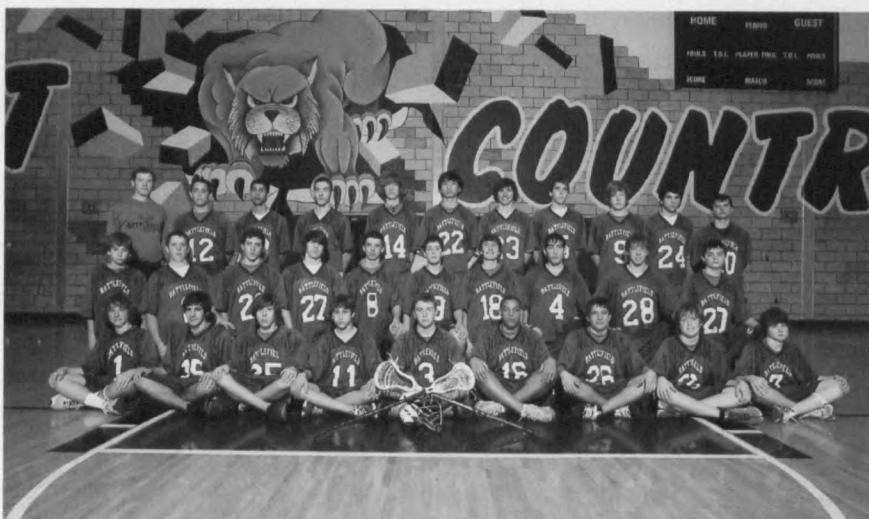

Matt Robles was quoted saying, "Random stories is what I love on the way back from games. Mainly from Bobby and Joey."

This year JV Lacrosse was insane! To say that they trumped the competition is an understatement. If you had the privilege to go to their games, you would see the immense amount of teamwork and mechanics involved. A lot of hard work was put into their team, and it showed.

The defense was so intense many of their opponents stayed clear of their path. Using tight defense with close coverage they were unstoppable. The midfielders showed improvement with ball handling and teamwork while supporting the defense with hits and stick checks.

Attack ripped through other teams' defense while showing teamwork with great shots and greater assists. Spreading out and using cuts for a quick pass to a shot had the other teams' heads spinning!

Sophomore Tim Frerichs led the team in aggression while newcomer freshman Joey Hanson showed his worth. "Our offense and defense connect well, and our rising players show strong potential for this season," said sophomore Hunter Buchanan. Great job Bobcats!

"Champions aren't made in the gyms. Champions are made from something they have deep inside them - a desire, a dream, a vision."

Varsity Guys' Lacrosse MUSCLE, MIND, & HEART

Varsity Guys' Lacrosse has been around since the very beginning and since then they have mastered the skill of the game. Varsity Coach Mr. Marsh has led the team since its opening year, and this year with his brother Brian Marsh from Osbourn Park, as the Assistant Varsity Coach.

The first scrimmage game at Freedom in Loudoun County the guys won 7-3, starting off a great season. The annual Mulch Madness sale earned the guys enough money to buy brand new equipment, from helmets to new jerseys and even new shirts to wear on game days.

The guys practice every day for two hours or more, putting their heart and soul into the game. Not to mention the extra conditioning the guys did all winter, hoping this season would be the greatest one they have ever done.

Mr. Marsh said, "Every year we take a step further getting better and better and hopefully with all of our hard work this year is the year."

This year's Kick Off Tournament was hosted at Battlefield H. S. welcoming Centreville, Edison, Colonial Forge, and of course our very own Battlefield Bobcats. In the end they came out on top receiving 1st place. The first three games against Potomac, Hylton, and Garfield, Varsity guys have won making a great start and an awesome season for the guys.

JUNIOR VARSITY GIRL'S LACROSSE

After three days of intense running and drills during try-outs, the team was made up of 22 girls. New players, along with returning players, made this year's team exciting and fun for everyone. The girls were inseparable, from the laughs they shared to the most extreme moments in the games. The girls' first home game was against Osbourn Park; they won the game 9 - 2.

Ms. Webb commented on the girls' performance throughout the season saying, "Our 2008 Girl's Junior Varsity Lacrosse Team is looking amazing this season! Even though our team started with many new faces to the sport of lacrosse, the team has worked hard in practice and has been very successful during games.

After returning from spring break the junior varsity team had three games in one week and won two of those three games. I am so proud of our team and I am very excited to see how much more they will improve by the end of the season."

“WE WILL...”

Here are your...

“LADY BOBCATS!!!”

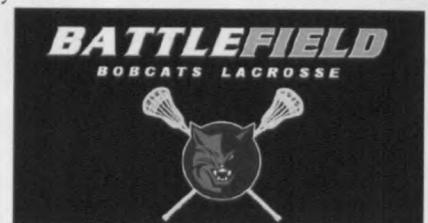

This year will be the fourth season of the “Lady Bobcats Lacrosse.” The team will be losing their five seniors Chanel Figueroa, Courtney Eisert, Jessica Maples, Kelsey Brown, and Kelly Johnson, the team’s manager, at the end of this season. They all will be starting their own journeys through life after this year, but will always have the fun and crazy memories from their Lady Bobcats’ lacrosse years.

The team is more of a family than just a team this year. They work, condition, and play hard together. The Lady Bobcats know how to back each other up during games and during practices. The girls had a rough start to this season. The whole team has had to condition hard and get their mind set toward the team’s winning goal.

The team really wants to win regionals and states this year. Coach Kilgore really makes them work during practice and doesn’t waste a minute just standing around. He too has his heart set on a very successful season for the girls.

Senior Courtney Eisert says she’s going to miss all the hard work and crazy times from her high school lacrosse years. She’s also going to miss all the girls a lot when she goes to college next year.

COACH’S CORNER

Coach Kilgore comments, “This season came with high expectations. Our team expression is “We Will...” and everyday I challenge the girls and they always meet and exceed my expectations. So at the end of this season, they can all say, “We Did!”

Two main objectives during the 2008 Outdoor Track season were building a team and building up speed. Building a team in number was easy; the turnout for the track team was the largest in the past four years. The difficult part was obtaining a team spirit and unity of such a large group. With each passing practice and meet, the athletes came to learn more names to cheer one another on.

Building up speed is an essential part to any track team. In order to compete with other schools, the athletes at Battlefield had to step it up at practices. On days with bad weather, Coach Mobley often tells the team that they still had practice so that they could get better than the teams taking off and keep up with the others teams toughing it out. Coach Mobley, Coach Hannett, and Coach Morris clocked faster and faster splits and finishes as a result of workouts aimed at speed, endurance, and technique.

The hard work from the athletes gave way to many first place rankings at meets and invitationals including the boys taking first at the Carolyn Legard Relays and the girls taking first at the Prince William County Championship.

JV BOYS' SOCCER

Before spring comes around, the JV Men's soccer team begins their tryouts and their conditioning. This determines whether or not they make the team so you know that our players are the best out there!

Last year, the bobcats were undefeated at the beginning of the season and couldn't find anytime to practice because of the snowy weather. This year, because the weather was not as cold as the last, the team was much more anxious to get some practicing in and to improve their skills.

The JV boy's soccer team was energetic and pumped due to their spirit and teamwork. The ones who have been playing for a while motivated the newcomers to work together as a team.

This year the team proved that they can get the same recognition and the respect as the Varsity team. Coach Pimsaen and the other coaches were very excited about this season and felt that the changes they added to the team were a great asset and helped the players to keep moving forward as the season goes on.

Senior and Captain Reid McKee has been a member of the team since he was a freshman. Throughout the years, his skills have improved and his leadership abilities have grown, which proves his capabilities as captain this year. "The increase in responsibility is tough, but it's worth being a great role model for my team," said McKee.

"Another grand Battlefield soccer season is upon us. But this time, there is no next year for me. It will be over just as quick as it started. It is so sad to know that in a couple months I'll have to let go of the brotherhood that I've been so lucky to be a part of and have grown to know and love over the past four years. I hope this season we can go even better than we've done in the past because that would be a perfect ending to high school. It will be tough, but we'll make history. You'll see," said Mayhugh.

"Being a part of the Battlefield soccer program since day one of freshmen year has given me the opportunity of becoming closer with my fellow teammates, who I now consider my brothers on and off the field. Every year has changed, from the loss of Brenden Shaffer and Zach Ward to next year losing Thomas Mayhugh and Reid McKee. They will be missed, but that won't stop us from continuing to do what we do best and having a shot at states," Franco said.

Battlefield High School MENS' VARSITY SOCCER

The 2008 Varsity Soccer Team began the season with a major change: a new coach. Last years JV coach, Coach Pimsaen, took on the responsibilities of Varsity Coach. With slots for twenty players, the team had three days of tryouts, then jumped right into conditioning and preparing for the pre-season scrimmages. Coach Pimsaen commented, "As for the team, some might call it a rebuilding year after losing a good crop of seniors. I think this group has potential and can make some noise in the Cedar Run District." The team members had a mandatory study hall, which was made possible by the two assistant coaches Mr. Del Cid and Mr. Bretsch. This improved the teams' overall academic success. The teams' hard work and dedication on and off the field paid off and showed their determination for victory. Each success was a reflection of the boy's teamwork and hard work.

Despite losing several seniors, the team will continue to grow and be successful in years to come.

Dribble, Pass it,

SCORE IT!

In the 2007-2008 spring season the JV Girl's Soccer Team played a very good season. The girls ended out with a banging final score and smiles on their faces. All of the girls completed the season together as a team with pride and joy. From that support, came student bobcats along with the player's friends and family. The JV girls really showed their strength on the field and as a team.

The JV girls always stepped on to the field with a smile of bobcat pride. They never gave up even at the worst of times. When they were upset they never showed a frown but always a smile. All the fans gave the team encouragement every time the team played, whether on the field or off the field. Score, Score, Score!

The team is coached by Mrs. Byrd. This is her first year coaching. She also coaches the JV Field Hockey team. Freshman Katie DeLost is the manager of team, because she cannot play due to a knee injury. "Even though it's really hard to sit on the sidelines and watch everyone play, I accepted the manager position so that I could be with the girls all season. I attend all the practices and games, and all team activities. They make me feel a part of the team as much as they are. It's great watching them progress and become a better team together. I look forward to the future with this team," stated freshman Katie DeLost when asked how she supports her team even though she cannot play on the field with them.

Varsity Girls' Soccer TEAM. GENUINE. DESIRE.

This year the Girls' Varsity Soccer team at Battlefield had a few changes. From a new coach to new players the team had to start at the beginning. The new coach, Mr. Hilton, said "The girls have been working very hard to achieve success this season. Our girls always strive to have a positive attitude, commit to the program, and conduct themselves in a first class manner. So far the girls have made my first season enjoyable and I look forward to continuing to work with them to help them achieve their goals."

The team now consists of six freshman, five sophomores, three juniors, and seven seniors mixing both the "old" with the "new." Most of the seniors have played for the team since the school opened including the two captains Caitlin Maat and Jessica Jewell. "I love being able to say I've been here all four years. It's an honor to be a part of a team that has been successful since the start," said Caitlin. "We have had such good times and made so many memories. I'm going to miss our pre-game butt smacks, prayers, and foot-taps," said Jessica.

The first game of the season against Hylton was a great start. The ladies came out eager to win and it paid off. They won 4 - 0 with two goals scored by Jessica Jewell, one by sophomore Sahar Aflaki, and the final by sophomore Katie Ostrovecky off a free kick.

With the first game out of the way along with the nerves and butterflies, the ladies jumped right into the season after spring break playing an average of two games a week, sometimes three. Bus rides for away games were always enjoyable. The girls took pictures, listened to music, and got pumped for the match. They were able to get to know one another better. As freshman Tessa Klumpp put it, "We're more than just a team, we're a family."

The Girls' Varsity Soccer team has always made an impressive statement out on the field and this season has been no exception. Though many seniors are leaving the squad, the team will carry on continuing to get better. This season, though it was hard work, was worth it in the end.

I am a member of a team, and I rely on the team, I defer to it and sacrifice for it, because the team, not the individual, is the ultimate champion.

The JV Softball team has come a long way since the opening of Battlefield and last year was a huge success for them. Even though there was snow in the way of their game, they were forced to practice indoors, the team was not going to let any weather conditions ruin their season. This year, they were energized and confident that the season was going to be the best in school history.

New faces joined the team and were ready to prove themselves while out on the field. This year the Battlefield Girls JV Softball Team increased their skills since the beginning of the season. Learning the game, being creative, and having fun; that is what it is all about. The girls came and chatted with the yearbook crew and could not stop talking about how fun it was to be on a team with strong, determined girls who get together and just chill outside of practice. Of course it is not always easy to be on a team. The girls have to keep up their grades and put on their best behavior. This was not a problem for them though.

By being on a team and sticking to something you started, makes you a role model to someone out there in the world. These girls have what it takes to make these qualities happen.

Most of the players this year have already decided that next year is a sure thing. They are definitely trying out again for softball, and they hope to step it up by possibly joining varsity.

*Team Captains
Kaitlyn Sileo and Megan Sutphin*

Varsity Softball has made one of the biggest turn around in the past four years. The first season the team lost all but one game, but they never gave up. Each year they have improved until finally almost making it to states this past season. This year they were expected to go further than that. On February 25th, forty-five girls tried out for twenty-five slots, but only twelve could be on Varsity. "There was a big turnout at tryouts and I think that shows how much this school is growing from the first year having only enough to make a varsity team and now having to make cuts," said Kaitlyn Sileo.

Coach Schelzo decided to keep only eleven girls this year to keep the playing time up for each player.

Senior Captains Kaitlyn Sileo and Megan Sutphin, were always there to bring the teams spirit up; their job was to carry the team through thick and thin. They are the team's back bone. Junior Courtney Liddle added, "I'm looking forward to this upcoming season. Softball is my life." The team went to Richmond for a tournament on March 28th for the weekend. They won the first three games with the slaughter rule and lost the championship game by one. The team went into the tournament with the mind set that if all goes well, they would be bringing a trophy home. The Varsity Softball Team worked their butts off six days a week. This was the team to come out and watch.

The Original Pong,

TENNIS

New energy and strength allowed for great achievements for the tennis team during the 2008 season. Tennis requires quick reflexes and agility to become a truly competitive player. But these skills did not just manifest overnight. In order to be this skilled, the team members had to train constantly. "Even though we faced cold, harsh weather conditions," says senior captain Brianna Malley, "hot, sunny days, and three hour matches, we always ended up having great food and having a blast at every match!" Persistent drilling and one-on-one practice matches helped the players to prepare and hone their skills effectively. While matches sometimes created stress for the players, others were pumped up with adrenaline and ready to go. Some of these players relied on certain rituals like eating a favorite food or snack, drinking an energy drink, or listening to music before the match in order to calm themselves down or amp them up to play. In the end, however, it was mostly the hard work, dedication, and vigorous training that helped the tennis team become as successful as they were this year.

THE ORIGINAL

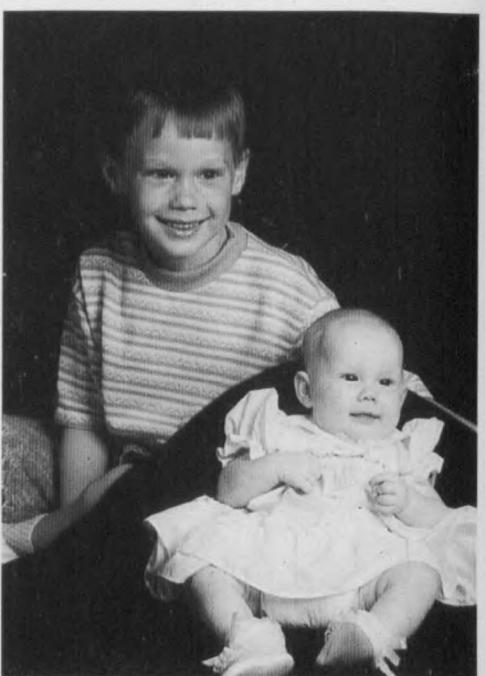

Community

The students and faculty at Battlefield High School would not be anywhere without the community's support. The local community includes the parents that take us to school early in the morning, help us out on projects, and show up at all the games. The community includes the local businesses that help finance teams, organizations, and this yearbook at our school. And where would we be without the support of our loyal fans. The crazy ones that stick through the football games in the pouring rain until the game gets called. All these people are the heart of the community. They are what defines the local area and make our hometowns special.

The day you were born, we cried tears of joy. Even then, we had no idea what a blessing you would be. You have been given countless gifts, and you always strive to use them for the good. Keep doing what you do, and when things get tough, don't forget to "dance in the rain." Then someday, just like us, the world will say.....we had no idea what a blessing you would be.

Where has the time gone, Peanut? It seems only a short time ago when you were dragging bunny everywhere while climbing the monkey bars at the playground, showing up all the boys. Playing baseball in the driveway, turned into playing soccer on the field, and, oh, what an awesome player you have become. We will miss hearing your infectious laugh around the house, but know it will continue to add happiness and a smile to everyone that you touch in life. Set high goals and follow your dreams wherever they may take you. You're an amazing writer and I know that will be a great part of your future. Don't ever forget your "older" sister. She loves you more than you will ever know. We still love you "this much" and will support you in your life's decisions. We are confident that you will, indeed, make a difference in the world.

It's been a joy watching you play soccer from the very beginning as an orange Tiger to now as a varsity star. We are sure that you will tackle the challenges that life throws at you and succeed in your own accomplishments. Don't ever forget your "little" sister. She loves you more than you will ever know. Sometimes it is easy to be discouraged by your circumstances or people everyday, but know that we are always here no matter that you are struggling through. Although we cannot always control the events in our lives, we can always control our response to them, and the actions we take as a result. Setting a goal is not the thing. It is deciding how you will go about achieving it and staying with that plan. Know that no matter what God has planned for you or what you have planned our for yourself, we are here to support and love you.

There are three types of people in the world: those who make things happen, those who watch things happen, and those who wonder what happened. We all have a choice. You can decide which type of person you want to be. Choose to be in the first group.

Believe in yourself. Believe in your dreams and always remember, we believe in you too.

JESSICA GOINGS

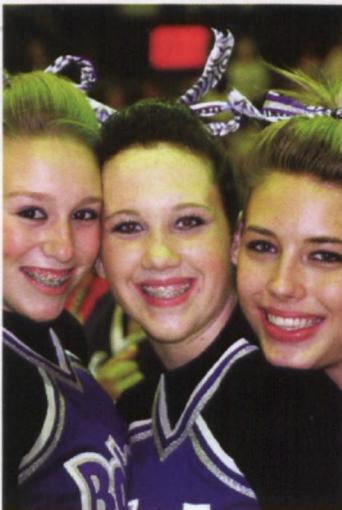

Our beautiful baby girl has grown up and now on her way to college to become a successful business woman. We are very proud of all your achievements in high school and for the person you have become. We have high hopes for you to be successful in life and as the song goes from Rascal Flatts:

I hope that the days come easy and the moments pass slow, And each road leads you where you want to go. And if you're faced with a choice, and you have to choose, I hope you choose the ones that means the most to you. And if one door opens to another door closed, I hope you keep on walkin' till you find a window. If it's cold outside show the world the warmth of you smile.

We hope you never look back and you never forget all the ones who have loved you in the place you left. We hope you always forgive and you never regret, and you help somebody every chance you get. We hope you find God's grace in every mistake, and you always give more than you take. More than anything; Our wish, for you, is that this life becomes all that you want it to. That your dreams stay big, and your worries stay small, you never need to carry more than you can hold, and while you're out there gettin where you getting too, We hope you know somebody loves you, and wants the same things too. This is our wish!!!!!!

We love you very much sweetie!

Colophon

The Lynx Book was printed in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania by Herff Jones Yearbooks. The local representative was Lisa Heiser and the customer service representative was Debbie Drobak. Herff Jones supplied all the student portrait pictures, many of the sports pictures, and several special event pictures, through Victor O'Neil Studios.

The Lynx had a press run of 900 copies and sold them for $65. The cover uses a permocote finish with a litho protective coating and 145 pt. board weight. It is full color with metallic silver. The endsheet is Classic gray and has black applied. All pages were created using Adobe InDesign CS2 and digital pictures.

Rachel Satterwhite served as Editor in Chief, and Katie Brown was the Business/Financial Manager.

The Lynx Staff would like to thank our adviser, Mr. Fitzgerald, for his expertise in proofreading and editing. Lisa Heiser for her countless hours spent working on deadlines and proof corrections. Also, thanks to Debbie Drobak and Herff Jones Yearbooks for their patience and understanding.

This is perhaps the most traditional and original part of the yearbook, the ending. Instead of just letting the memories from the year just end here, keep them close to heart. Always remember the friends and fun times of high school. After all you only live once and only have one go at making your own original story.

One of the most important things in life is to be yourself. Society tells us to follow the trends and figuratively keep up with the Jones. In doing so people lose their individual image. Instead be original. Simply be you. Whether it is this summer or next year, take a step out of the crowd; learn to let your originality and personality shine. Do not be a secondary character in your own life, be the high-light, the main character.

Throughout life, treasure the old, the original and at the same time make yourself be your own original person. This is your chance, go be you. After all, we at Battlefield High School are The Original.

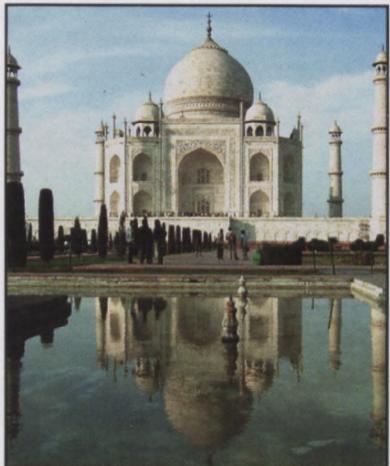

Rachel Satterwhite, Editor in Chief
